SENATORS ESCAPE WASHINGTON GRILL

May Write Report to

Any Indictments; Social Lobby Quiz Dormant.

Washington, November 7.—(United News)—One of Senator Smith W. Brookhart's fellow guests at the much-discussed "Wall Street Party" given in 1926 for republican senators, was called upon today to tell the District of Columbia grand jury about the alleged drinking, as a result of Brookhart's story to the grand jury yesterday.

E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, was asked by the jury in a telegram to appear Monday.

This action to carry on the inquiry suggested by Brookhart was taken before the grand jury intended to go far enough into the situation to be able to write a report to the court on enforcement conditions here, whether or not any prosecutions are started in the three-year-old case.

Loomis was invited instead of being subpoenaed to save time, although the grand jury has the power to compel his attendance if he should refuse to respond to the invitation.

Drinks Raw Liquor.

No other witnesses will be called for the present, according to U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover, who sent the telegram advising Loomis of the jury's invitation. It is now believed unlikely the senators named by Brookhart as having attended the dinner would be called.

Loomis was the only person named by Brookhart in his senate speech as having partaken of the "Scotch whisky" furnished as mementoes in silver pocket flasks. The financier was described by the Iowa senator as having sat at his left and as having engaged him in an argument as to his position against present railroad valuation figures.

The dinner was given by Walter Faby, New York broker, in honor of newly-elected republican senators. Brookhart, in recounting his meeting with Loomis to the senate, said:

"During the evening, I have had Mr. Loomis took his hip flask—a beautiful silver hip flask—out of his pocket, and he poured out some of that Scotch whisky. I have had enough experience in the chemical laboratory to know that it had a heavy content of alcohol. He poured that in the glass and then he poured in some water—it was too strong to take raw—and he drank that, and a lot of similar operations went along around the table."

Morgan Representative.

Brookhart described Loomis as a representative of J. P. Morgan & Company, and contrasted him with Otto Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, who sat at his right and engaged him in a similar conversation regarding his railroad ideas. Loomis' railroad is owned by the Pennsylvania railroad system.

In the senate the question of investigating the "social lobby," denounced by Brookhart, was connected with the Faby dinner and on many other occasions, seemed up to Brookhart. He has said he believed the inquiry investigating committee should make up this question, and Chairman "Barney" of the committee, rejoined that he was willing if Brookhart would make a formal request to that effect. Whether the inauguration of an inquiry, if Brookhart pressed it, would lead to more disclosures of drinking at social functions, was a much-discussed question in social circles here.

SENATOR HARRIS TO ASK WIDENING OF CHATTAHOOCHEE

Washington, November 7.—(Special)—Legislation to improve the Chatahoochee river to a depth of five feet from its mouth to Atlanta as a means of accommodating large transportation will be sponsored by the forthcoming regular session of congress by Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, he announced today.

Senator Harris said he would leave the cost and extent of the proposed improvement to members of the army board of engineers, who will be called upon to make an examination and report of the project.

The Chatahoochee improvement is contemplated by Senator Harris in connection with the study now being made of the proposed inland waterway along the coast of Georgia and Florida, and extending to the Gulf of Mexico. Engineers are now making a survey of the waterway project under legislation sponsored by Senator Harris and representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia.

STICKS TO FIRST STORY OF DEATH

Tells Court Ship's Officer
and She Were to Wed;
Accused Refuses to Return Smiles.

Point a La Hache, La., November 7.—(AP)—Testifying at the arraignment of John McGouldrick, ship's officer indicted for the murder of Jack Kraft, adventurous New York pressman, Cloria Rouzer, alias Lone Orde, clung to her original story that her traveling companion had committed suicide over the side of the steamship Creole as it steamed up the Mississippi river.

This testimony, District Attorney Leander Perez said, had taken the state by surprise as the girl had promised to turn state's evidence. He grilled her closely on the statement she had made to him that "Mack could have killed him."

She replied hotly that the district attorney had forced that statement from her under duress after hours of grilling at night. The district attorney denied the charge and opposed bail for the girl until she had signed the transcript of the testimony. She was returned to the local jail along with McGouldrick.

During her testimony she smiled frequently at McGouldrick, whom she had called her fiance, but the well-groomed officer only faintly responded to her recognition. During the early part of the testimony the witness was composed and collected but later in the afternoon she grew nervous and weak and when confronted with the slipper found on Kraft's body she sobbed convulsively.

McGouldrick's indictment was the result of an enduring note sent him while his boat was moving down the river on its return voyage to New York and the district attorney had staked his whole case on the girl's testimony. He admitted that her testimony today had weakened his case but declared this was only an arrangement and actual trial would start on November 28.

From all appearances, the girl said Kraft's act was suicidal but later she said she did not know whether he had been killed on the boat or not.

"Jack left the boat alive and what happened after that is beyond my knowledge," she said. "From all appearances, he committed suicide."

Miss Rouzer denied any improper relations with either Kraft or McGouldrick, and said she traveled with McGouldrick because she was on a trip of sketching and writing. She said McGouldrick said he "loved" her and they had agreed to be married. McGouldrick had denied any intention of marrying the girl.

Charges Trade With Soviet.

Ashurst read a newspaper article saying the United States Steel Corporation had agreed to a decision to allow manganese free entry, had contracted with Soviet Russia for 80,000 to 150,000 tons annually and to export industrial products, that the corporation to save from two to four million dollars a year.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, opposed a duty on the goods that the committee decision never could be brought up to the point of meeting the demand, said the steel corporation had informed him that the Russian contract story was "completely erroneous."

Asserting that the senate had "done a great deal of harm to the tariff bill," Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the house republican leader, tonight predicted that the house would not accept the debenture plan as incorporated in the bill by the senate.

DEBATE DISCLOSES COMPANIES' PROFITS

House Leader Declares
Bill as Revamped in Up-

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Washington, November 7.—(AP)—Settling one of the bitterest disputes since it began readjustments, the nation's tariff structure, the Senate today voted 60 to 13 to increase the duty on manganese, a mineral used in the manufacture of steel, which the pending bill as reported by the finance committee placed on the free list.

The vote came on an amendment by Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, providing a duty of one cent a pound on ore containing ten per cent and over of metallic manganese, which would protect both low and high grade manganese producers in the west and south.

Approval of the higher protection was given after five and a half hours of heated debate in which the first figures obtained from tax returns for use in consideration of the pending bill were divulged, showing eight of the nation's leading steel companies to have made net profits of $930,181.15 since 1922 when the present tariff law was enacted.

Beats Steel Duty.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, who engaged in a bitter clash over the alleged "manganese" dinner in Washington, with Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, an opponent of the duty, immediately preceding the roll call, the tax statistics disclosed to the Senate after he had been told by some of his colleagues that it would not be improper.

After the manganese vote the Senate rejected, 51 to 19, a committee amendment to increase the tariff on structural steel from one-fifth to three-eighths of one cent a pound.

Ashurst read the tax figures to show that the steel companies could well afford to pay the manganese duty, despite the domestic production being small compared with the needs of the country in advance of the war.

For the United States Steel Corporation alone the net profits since 1922 were disclosed as $42,812,128, with the highest earnings shown last year, $24,173,741.

Wheeler, urging the duty to protect the manganese producers and miners in his home city of Butte, said he had the latest figures on the company's profits, and he had agreed to be married. McGouldrick had denied any intention of marrying the girl.

Charges Trade With Soviet.

Stocks REBOUND
IN CLOSING HOURS
AFTER DEPRESSION

Spectacular Rally Fol- lows Surprise Break Caused by General Clear- ing Out of Margins.

BY STANLEY W. PRENSOIL.
Associated Press Financial Editor.
New York, November 7.—(AP)—The stock market struck a new bottom today when a couple of million shares of distress stock was thrown overboard at the opening, and then staged one of the most spectacular rallies in recent market history.

Early declines of $5 to $15 a share in many of the leaders were wiped out and converted into gains which ran from $1 to nearly $18 a share. Recoveries in the general list were not so pronounced as nearly 500 stocks, or about half of those traded in, closed with net declines, the large majority of which ranged from a few cents to $2 a share.

Blocks of 5,000 to 75,000 shares were dumped "at the market" as soon as the opening gong had sounded, with the result that nearly 2,500,000 shares changed hands in the first half-hour. The ticker fell steadily behind, and was nearly two hours late in printing the final quotation.

Heavy Sales.

Three sales for the abbreviated three-hour session on the New York Stock Exchange were 7,184,000 shares, or at the rate of nearly 12,000,000 shares for a full five-hour day, which compares with 5,914,760 shares in yesterday's short session.

Evidence of the tremendous liquidation of speculative holdings that has taken place in the past week was furnished after the close of the market, in the weekly federal reserve report of brokers' loans, which showed a reduction of $658,000,000, following a decline of $1,096,000,000 the week before. This brings the total down to $4,882,000,000, the lowest since October 24, 1928.

Stocks, which have been suffering from a bad case of nerves as a result of the violent declines that have taken place since Monday and forced many of the leaders to new low levels, are now showing a decided recovery, at least temporarily, of the forced liquidation which had been overhanging the market.

Rally Cheered.

The rally in prices, which started before the end of the first hour, was greeted with loud cheers by floor brokers who could be heard a block away from the exchange. United States Steel common, after selling down to $161.50, rallied to $177.75, and the American Telephone and Telegraph, after selling down to $24.50, ended at $26.25.

Powerful buying support made its appearance as soon as the necessities of the market had been completed, and whether this was supplied by the New York banking group, organized October 29 to assure an orderly market, or by an investment interest awaiting "bar gain prices," or a combination of both, could not be determined.

No meetings of the New York banking group were held today, and no official statement was issued.

Abandonment, at least temporarily, of the proposed merger of the National City bank and the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company was one of the largest developments of the recent crash in securities prices. Corn Exchange stockholders, meeting today, approved the plan, which gave them the option of receiving four shares of National City for five shares of Corn Exchange, or $360 in cash for their Corn Exchange stock, but the National City stockholders' meeting was adjourned for lack of the necessary two-thirds majority. When the plan was announced several weeks ago Corn Exchange was selling at $400 and National City at $500, but the closing bid prices today were $280 and $295, respectively.

Prices of leading New York Bank and Trust Company stocks dropped $10 to $50 a share in the early trading "over the counter," but rallied sharply with listed securities in the later trading.

Stocks on the New York Curb Market rallied after declines of $2 to $15 and developed during the first hour, closing prices, however, were irregular, although a few of the leaders were able to show net gains for the day. Electric Bond & Share, off several dollars at the opening, showed a net advance of $8.25. Cities Service, again trading large volume, closed at $31, up $1.12, after selling down to $28.12.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, November 7.—(United News)—Santa Maria, her anger satisfied, ceased today her spewing of molten lava upon the men and women who had dug into her sides to plant coffee.

An area of 20 square miles lay devastated by lava and ashes. Near-by hospitals were filled with injured. The preliminary death toll was fixed at 300, although some officials believed it would rise to 1,000 before the full damage of the "Vesuvius of Guatemala" was made known.

Witnesses from the stricken area, including some of the injured brought here, told tales of horror rivaling the destruction of famous Pompeii.

About 9:30 o'clock Saturday night life was almost as usual around the 13,000-foot volcanic mountain, except that the sky was clouded. The temperature was 5 degrees centigrade.

White-Hot Stones.

Suddenly rumblings were heard, a heavy shock ran along the southern slopes, and a burning and and white-hot stones began falling over a region 10 miles square.

Streams of lava began rushing down the crater through old cliffs, joining with lower permanent streams issuing from the mountain's side.

Many of the settlers were asleep in their coffee plantations and were engulfed. Others died from the extreme heat, poisonous fumes, dust-laden atmosphere and a rain of flaming materials.

Those who escaped the first furious outbreak ran terrified in all directions, frequently to find themselves surrounded by rushing lava and eventually laid weakened and await death.

Red Cross officials and private parties started rescue work the same night, but found it difficult to penetrate the danger zone. Many of the families who were found in their huts or fields. Resolutions adopted urged strict enforcement of the laws against misbranding and adulteration of coffee and expressed a definite interest in the Louisville grocery survey being conducted by the department of commerce.

Priest Upholds Scribes' Refusal To Tell on Tigers

Baltimore, Md., November 7.—(P)—The Baltimore Catholic Review tomorrow will publish comments by Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, of Catholic university, Washington, upholding three Washington reporters who refused to give confidential information to the grand jury with the result that they were sentenced for contempt of court.

In his comments Father Ryan refers to the distinction made by works on moral theology between different classes of secrets including professional secrets and secrets obtained only on the condition that they will not be revealed.

Declaring that the Washington reporters not only were under no moral obligation to reveal their information, Father Ryan says that they were morally obliged to persist in their refusal. He expresses a hope that the legal obligations in their case would be authoritatively determined by the highest court of competent jurisdiction.

"That the common good was injured in any substantial degree through failure of the public prosecutors or enforcement officers to get the names and addresses of a few bootleggers more or less, is a supposition that no sober and intelligent citizen will seriously entertain for a moment," he adds.

Actual Work Begun on Navy's Huge Dirigible

Akron, Ohio, November 7.—(United News)—A golden rivet, driven into the "Master Ring" of the Zeppelin ZRS-4 today, marked the beginning of actual work on the first of two monster dirigibles for the navy.

They will be the largest aircraft ever constructed—285 feet long, 140 feet high, and with a gas capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet—nearly twice as great as that of the globe-encircling Graf Zeppelin.

In the hull of the dirigibles—the second will be known as the ZRS-5 there will be a hangar for five scouting airplanes, to be launched in the air and to return while the dirigibles are in full flight.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, U. S. N., drove the golden rivet that started work on the ZRS-4 at the dock of the Zeppelin corporation, which has the contract for the ships.

The navy's biggest commissioned dirigible, the Los Angeles, dived over the heads of the huge crowd at inauguration ceremonies were conducted. The Los Angeles will be dwarfed by the two dirigibles. The ZRS-4 is scheduled to be completed by July, 1931.

BIBLE PROGRAM FEATURES A. M. E. CHURCH SESSION

Rockmart, Ga., November 7.—(Special)—The second day's session of the North Georgia A. M. E. Church conference was held here today in the Wesley Chapel, with Bishop W. A. Fountain presiding.

Conference Bible institute work featured the morning session. R. E. Roman, Athens; C. A. Wingfield, state Sunday school superintendent; S. F. Harris, Athens, and C. G. Wiley, of Macon, were the principal speakers.

Final district financial reports were made by J. A. Hadley, of Marietta; C. A. Wingfield, of Rome; J. R. Fleming, of Athens, and J. T. Wilkinson, of Washington.

The high session was featured by a missionary program, which included A. R. Cooper, Atlanta; F. L. Hadley, R. S. Wingfield, and Superintendent of Missions J. A. Fountain as the principal speakers.

An educational anniversary is scheduled for tomorrow night. The conference is expected to close Sunday night.

ISHBEL RECOUNTS HER IMPRESSIONS OF U. S. PEOPLE

London, November 7.—(P)—"My impressions of America" were related tonight by Ishbel MacDonald at a labor meeting which overflowed the Hampstead town hall and caused her to make an address in the open air.

"I was struck very much with the sense that we Britishers have been wrong in going to the United States and Canada imbued with a superiority complex and trying to push our ideas on to America," said Miss MacDonald. "I am afraid we have not had very good people to represent us there in the past."

Miss MacDonald said that on several occasions people in America had told her that it was "strange that you do not preach to us and tell us how to do things" because we are used to having people come out here telling us how they do things and how we should do them. The daughter of the prime minister suggested that more English people ought to go to the United States and Canada for their holiday trips.

"Then we would have a better understanding than a priest between the two sides of the Atlantic," she said.

CYCLE STRIKES DEER ON ROAD, 2 SEAMEN HURT

Westerly, R. I., November 7.—(P)—When their motorcycle struck a deer on the highway, two seamen of the United States submarine base, New London, Conn., were thrown to the pavement early today and one was seriously injured.

Edward Knox, 19, of Los Angeles, Calif., was brought to a hospital here, where it was believed that his skull was fractured. His companion, John Snyder, 20, of Philadelphia, was unhurt.

They were en route from Providence to New London.

Snyder returned to the scene later and found both the motorcycle and deer missing.

ROYAL WEDDING WILL TAKE PLACE AT PAULINE CHAPEL

Rome, November 7.—(P)—Indications today were that Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, would be married in Rome, at the Pauline chapel in the Quirinal palace.

The crown prince, who has been in Rome for several days yesterday received the papal nuncio, Monsignor Borgognini Duca, for a 20-minute conversation, while Queen Elena came incognito from San Rossore to discuss the wedding plans with her son.

The chapel, which was named after

Pope Paul V, was chosen because it is now a private chapel in the royal house and can be policed with ease and credentials of guests controlled. The choice will mean a more intimate family function than had been planned previously. Certain other edifices have not been definitely excluded from the arrangements. These included the National church, St. Mary of the Angels, in which the prince's parents were married, and Santa Maria, in Araceli, on Capitoline hill, near the statue of Victor Emmanuel II.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP DRIVE TO OPEN TODAY

Week's Campaign Will Be Featured By Armistice Day Program.

A one-week membership drive begins today by Atlanta post of the American Legion, under a proclamation of Post Commander Theron B. Herms.

All World War veterans in the Atlanta district who are not members of the Legion will be invited to join the post.

Following a luncheon at noon today at the Henry Grady hotel, when 250 Legionnaires are expected to be present, the intensive drive will be inaugurated, under the direction of Harry A. Wallerstein, chairman of the post's membership committee.

Features of the week's drive will be the celebration of Armistice Day and the annual street sale Tuesday of poppies by Legion auxiliary workers to raise funds for aid of disabled veterans.

It was stated by Legion officials that the greatest Armistice Day parade ever witnessed in Atlanta will move in the downtown section Monday, with every military, naval and patriotic organization in the Atlanta district participating. The parade begins at 10:30 o'clock a. m. at Peachtree street and Baker, ending at Five Points where a program will be given.

Major Rasdale, by official proclamation, has urged all Atlantans to participate in celebration of the eleven anniversary of the close of the war.

General McCoy Returns to Post In Fourth Area

Major General Frank R. McCoy, the fourth army corps commander, arrived at Fort McPherson Thursday from Washington to assume his command, immediately after completing his work on the Paraguayan-Uruguayan commission in Washington.

The general shortly will begin a series of inspection trips to various military posts and establishments under his command. It was announced shortly after his arrival, Next Monday he will go to Auburn, Ala., where he will make an Armistice Day address to the student body of Auburn Polytechnic institute. The inspection trips are expected to keep the general away from his headquarters desk about two or three days each week until all the posts in the area have been visited.

General McCoy, once a noted polo player, will play his first game in several years Sunday afternoon when he appears at Fort McPherson in the lineup of the Fourth Corps team.

LIBERAL GROUPS COMPLETE JOINT CONFERENCE HERE

The conference of the Mid-Southern and National Federation of Religious Liberals holding a joint meet in the United Liberal church on Peachtree street, closed Thursday night with addresses by Dr. George H. Badger, of Orlando, Fla., and Dr. Roger S. Galer, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, president of the national federation.

During the Thursday session, a number of important steps were taken according to officials. Capital punishment for crime was denounced in a resolution which was adopted during the morning, over the long protest of Dr. James P. Faulkner, of Atlanta. Dr. D. W. Dodge, pastor of the Congregational church of Atlanta, was the principal speaker of the morning.

The Mid-Southern Federation voted to combine with the national federation and to do away with its own separate organization. A committee composed of Dr. D. Witherspoon, of Atlanta; Dr. Lon R. Call, of Louisville, Ky.; and Dr. Harry Canfield, of Greensboro, N. C., was selected to plan the merger.

KONTZ AND OTHER OFFICERS OF CITY CLUB RE-ELECTED

Judge E. C. Kontz, president of the City Club, and other officers of the club were re-elected at the annual meeting Thursday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel.

More Rainfall Seen for Today; Record Totters

With rain and more rain predicted for Atlanta today by the local weather bureau, all previous records for yearly precipitation are seemingly destined to be surpassed.

Prior to Thursday's downpour, the total for the month was 1.25 inches, an excess of .73 inches; and the total since January 1 was 60.96 inches, an excess of nearly 20 inches. The year 1929 holds the record for precipitation with a total of 65.24 and a normal amount of rainfall between now and December 31 will force this into the record.

The mercury in the official thermometer Thursday acted in a most peculiar manner and did very little "raining." The minimum for the early morning hours was 50. This had been increased one degree at 7 o'clock and at noon had dropped off three degrees. This decline was expected to continue through the night until the 45-degree mark is reached as a minimum for today, following which a climb of some ten degrees is anticipated.

F. L. Dobbs Denied Habeas Corpus Writ By Judge Pomeroy

A habeas corpus writ to prevent the return to Los Angeles, Cal., of F. L. Dobbs was denied the petition Thursday by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy of Fulton superior court. Judge Pomeroy said that he would allow Dobbs to appeal the case, provided he put up more than $300 to cover expenses of a Los Angeles officer in coming here.

Dobbs is charged with forgery in California, and his extradition was ordered by Governor Hardman at the request of the governor of that state. If Dobbs files an appeal within three days, a supersedeas will be allowed pending hearing of the case in the higher court, Judge Pomeroy said. Until the expiration of the three-day limit for appeal, Dobbs is to be held in jail.

With rain and more rain predicted for Atlanta today by the local weather bureau, all previous records for yearly precipitation are seemingly destined to be surpassed.

Prior to Thursday's downpour, the total for the month was 1.25 inches, an excess of .73 inches; and the total since January 1 was 60.96 inches, an excess of nearly 20 inches. The year 1929 holds the record for precipitation with a total of 65.24 and a normal amount of rainfall between now and December 31 will force this into the record.

The mercury in the official thermometer Thursday acted in a most peculiar manner and did very little "raining." The minimum for the early morning hours was 50. This had been increased one degree at 7 o'clock and at noon had dropped off three degrees. This decline was expected to continue through the night until the 45-degree mark is reached as a minimum for today, following which a climb of some ten degrees is anticipated.

F. L. Dobbs Denied Habeas Corpus Writ By Judge Pomeroy

A habeas corpus writ to prevent the return to Los Angeles, Cal., of F. L. Dobbs was denied the petition Thursday by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy of Fulton superior court. Judge Pomeroy said that he would allow Dobbs to appeal the case, provided he put up more than $300 to cover expenses of a Los Angeles officer in coming here.

Dobbs is charged with forgery in California, and his extradition was ordered by Governor Hardman at the request of the governor of that state. If Dobbs files an appeal within three days, a supersedeas will be allowed pending hearing of the case in the higher court, Judge Pomeroy said. Until the expiration of the three-day limit for appeal, Dobbs is to be held in jail.

Communist Russia Flaunts Red Banners and Doctrines In Anniversary Celebration

12-Mile-Long Parade Is Feature of Twelfth Anniversary Festival of Bolsheviks.

BY JAMES A. MILLS.
Associated Press Correspondent.
Moscow, U. S. S. R., November 7. (AP)—Communist Russia today observed in traditional revolutionary fashion the twelfth anniversary of the 1917 upheaval which ushered Bolshevism into the world and destroyed the ancient Russian government.

To bring the event closer to the hearts of the people, the government gave bread and meat at cost price to every member of the population holding bread cards.

With the aid of millions of yards of red bunting, huge flaming placards, symbolic wooden floats, numerous speakers' stands and large portraits of Lenin, Marx and Stalin, historic Red Square was transformed into a mighty theatrical stage for the passing of a 12-mile-long military and civilian parade led by the commander of the Moscow garrison.

Favored by perfect weather this morning, shouting mass of humanity, carrying banners, flaming flags and chanting the international march through the Gates of Resurrection where formerly stood the famous chapel of the Siberian Virgin. Over the portals of the gates today appeared a gigantic red anti-religious placard reading: "Down with the deities of religion! Give us books instead of religion!"

Red Flags Wave.
Over the slender steeples and the battlemented towers of the Kremlin fluttered huge red flags which, illuminated by a brilliant noonday sun, had the appearance of great flaming sheets of fire. Within the shadow of Lenin's now empty wooden tomb an enormous red banner was flung to the wind reading: "Proletarians of the world! Stand under the banner of the communist international! Forward to new battles and to new victories!"

The drone of scores of red army airplanes overhead mingled with the strains of military bands, the rumbling of dozens of military tanks and the staccato steps of marching soldiers imparted a distinctive martial touch to the scene.

Allegorical floats satirizing capitalism and imperialism and glorifying the triumph of communism and labor were a distinctive part of the procession which required eight hours to pass.

Leaders Review.
The marchers were reviewed by such leading figures as Joseph Stalin, Alexei Rykov, Mikhail Kalinin, Clemence Voroshiloff, A. Mikoyan and others who stood on a red draped wooden platform erected around a bronze monument to Prince Pozharski and Kozma Minin, who freed Russia from the Poles early in the seventeenth century.

While the Kremlin batteries boomed out successive salutes to the October revolution, workmen's delegations from various parts of the soviet union presented the trainloads of iron, steel, coal, grain, potatoes and textiles as gifts to the government.

On hundreds of banners carried by manifestants were slogans and catchwords directed in favor of the government's five-year industrial stabilization plan and against Leon Trotsky, Bukharin and other members of the opposition.

Throughout the day all shops, factories and government bureaus were closed, street traffic was suspended and everybody was given a holiday. Tonight all big cities throughout the soviet union will be ablaze with electrical light and fireworks. Special revolutionary performances will be given in the theaters, cinemas and clubs without admission fee, one of the features of which will be a soviet talking picture.

In a long signed article in today's Izvestia, Stalin sounds a note of optimism and triumph. He states that the great growth of collective farms will enable the soviet government finally to emerge from the present grain crisis and predicts that within a few years Russia will become one of the greatest grain producing countries in the world.

"By the spring of 1930 we will have 60,000 tractors and in another year from then 100,000 and in 1932 250,000," says Stalin. "We are going ahead full sail toward industrialization and socialism, leaving behind the Russian inertia which has existed for centuries."

"We are becoming a country of tractorization and automobilization. When we place the soviet union on the automobile and the Russian peasant on the tractor, then let the honorable capitalists who boast of their civilization try to catch up with us. We will yet see which of the countries can then be designated as backward and which as forward."

Detroit, November 7.—(AP)—William E. Scripps, publisher of the Detroit News, announced today that he had received word from his son, William J. Scripps, 24, who has been missing since October 23. He did not reveal his son's whereabouts.

A statement issued by the elder Scripps said in part: "I am glad to advise my friends and the public in general that I have heard from my son, William J. Scripps. He has requested that I do not disclose at the moment where he is. I shall respect this request. I do not feel free to disclose presently the reasons why he has asked of him to adopt the course he did. Rhine Evacuation
Suspension Denied
By French Minister

Paris, November 7.—(AP)—Reports from Berlin that evacuation of the Rhineland has been suspended by order of Andre Maginot, minister of war in the new Tardieu cabinet, were officially denied today.

The movements of troops necessitated by the evacuation was explained, might give reason for the supposition that the evacuation orders had been changed, but such orders have been changed only to meet exigencies of the service without in the least modifying the evacuation.

Some companies and regiments in the occupied territory are being dissolved instead of being transferred and other units are shifted to take their places. This movement of men, it was said in official quarters, was all that could give rise to the Berlin story.

New Orleans, November 7.—(AP)—The Girl Scout objective of peace and the five-year development program with a goal of 500,000 members and the raising of three million dollars for the work were laid before the annual convention of the Girl Scouts of America here today by the speakers.

"The purpose of the Girl Scout movement," said Mrs. Louis Slade, regional director of the New York League of Women Voters, is peace; how to conceive of the world joyously and dedicate your lives to peace." To accomplish this, she said, the girls of the present generation must be taught a citizenship "that imparts a wide and wholesome outlook."

"You and I," said Mrs. Slade, "have a common home—the United States. No, it is greater than that. The world is our common home. There is no other way to look at it."

In achieving the Girl Scout objective, she declared, the broad conception of four words essential: "beauty, patriotism, leadership and tolerance."

Warning of the waste of leisure time, Mrs. Slade continued: "The world is headed for leisure, with all its attendant difficulties. The problem is not what to do with one's work, but what to do with one's leisure. And that is a problem we shall have increasingly to take into consideration in all that we do."

The plan for the five-year development program recently promulgated by Mrs. Herbert Hoover and explained in detail here by Mrs. Louis G. Myers, of New York, calls for an expansion without change in the fundamental program of scouting in the outline.

The five-year program, Mrs. Myers said, "contemplates a total expenditure during the preparatory year, 1930, and the period of the program of $11,311,035. Of this $8,675,995 will come from sources within the Girl

Columbia, S. C., November 7.—(AP)—Right Rev. H. J. Mikell, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Atlanta, this morning was elected president of the Synod of the Fourth Province of the Episcopal church at the meeting which closes its three-day session here tonight.

The nomination of Bishop Mikell was made by the nominating committee after Right Rev. Lewis W. Burton, D. D., of Lexington, Ky., had declined the nomination.

Frank J. Deering, of Jacksonville, Fla., was re-elected treasurer of the Fourth Province and Rev. Gardiner C. Tucker, of Houlman, La., was named for another term as historiographer.

Scouts' movement and the difference will be financed from the development fund of $3,000,000.

The success or failure of the program rests upon the shoulders of the local workers throughout the country, Mrs. Myers said.

New York, November 7.—(AP)—The tradition that no woman attends a dinner in the private dining rooms of the Union League Club was broken today when the sea safety medal was awarded to Dr. Reginald A. Fessenden.

The break was made for Frances Perkins, state industrial commissioner, who attended the presentation in an official capacity because of her interest in safety first work. A member of the club at the dinner said that while there have been ladies' occasions affairs at the club he knew of no previous time when a woman had been admitted to the dinner.

The five-year program, Mrs. Myers said, "contemplates a total expenditure during the preparatory year, 1930, and the period of the program of $11,311,035. Of this $8,675,995 will come from sources within the Girl

Scouts' movement and the difference will be financed from the development fund of $3,000,000.

The success or failure of the program rests upon the shoulders of the local workers throughout the country, Mrs. Myers said.

Detroit, November 7.—(AP)—William E. Scripps, publisher of the Detroit News, announced today that he had received word from his son, William J. Scripps, 24, who has been missing since October 23. He did not reveal his son's whereabouts.

A statement issued by the elder Scripps said in part: "I am glad to advise my friends and the public in general that I have heard from my son, William J. Scripps. He has requested that I do not disclose at the moment where he is. I shall respect this request. I do not feel free to disclose presently the reasons why he has asked of him to adopt the course he did. We hope within the not too distant future that he will again resume his customary activities in his business affairs."

Young Scripps dropped from sight in Windsor, Ont., after going there to confer with an associate in a elder manufacturing company of which Scripps is president. Aid of Detroit and Windsor police in searching for him was enlisted the first of this week.

RHINE EVACUATION
Suspension Denied
By French Minister

Paris, November 7.—(AP)—Reports from Berlin that evacuation of the Rhineland has been suspended by order of Andre Maginot, minister of war in the new Tardieu cabinet, were officially denied today.

The movements of troops necessitated by the evacuation was explained, might give reason for the supposition that the evacuation orders had been changed, but such orders have been changed only to meet exigencies of the service without in the least modifying the evacuation.

Some companies and regiments in the occupied territory are being dissolved instead of being transferred and other units are shifted to take their places. This movement of men, it was said in official quarters, was all that could give rise to the Berlin story.

HOOPER PROCLAIMS 5-YEAR GIRL SCOUT PROGRAM OUTLINED
NOV. 11 ARMISTICE DAY
Goal Set at 500,000 Members and Raising $3,000,000 for Activity.

New Orleans, November 7.—(AP)—The Girl Scout objective of peace and the five-year development program with a goal of 500,000 members and the raising of three million dollars for the work were laid before the annual convention of the Girl Scouts of America here today by the speakers.

"The purpose of the Girl Scout movement," said Mrs. Louis Slade, regional director of the New York League of Women Voters, is peace; how to conceive of the world joyously and dedicate your lives to peace." To accomplish this, she said, the girls of the present generation must be taught a citizenship "that imparts a wide and wholesome outlook."

"You and I," said Mrs. Slade, "have a common home—the United States. No, it is greater than that. The world is our common home. There is no other way to look at it."

In achieving the Girl Scout objective, she declared, the broad conception of four words essential: "beauty, patriotism, leadership and tolerance."

Warning of the waste of leisure time, Mrs. Slade continued: "The world is headed for leisure, with all its attendant difficulties. The problem is not what to do with one's work, but what to do with one's leisure. And that is a problem we shall have increasingly to take into consideration in all that we do."

The plan for the five-year development program recently promulgated by Mrs. Herbert Hoover and explained in detail here by Mrs. Louis G. Myers, of New York, calls for an expansion without change in the fundamental program of scouting in the outline.

CUTTING COUNTY EXPENSES.

The county commissioners have entered upon a reform in the conduct of the county's business that will please ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the taxpayers of the community.

They have "requested" the heads of the former fee-supported offices to cut the salaries of their employees as much as 10 per cent from current pay rolls. The commissioners should follow up the "request" by making at least that much reduction absolute in their final action upon county salaries for the next year.

The commission has done highly commendable work in paying off this year $400,000 of the county's debts. They hope in 1930 to wipe out all current claims and put the county on a pay-on-the-nail basis, and the people will applaud them lustily when they do that. They can help themselves to that happy state by the proposed salary cuts.

It is most notoriously absurd to follow the notion that a man or woman is worth two and three times more when employed on a county job than when doing the same and more work in private employment.

A man who can get only $50 a week in commercial pursuit is clearly not worth $100 a week in the public service; and a stenographer who is paid $25 a week in the office of a law firm is scarcely worth $75 to $100 a week in the service of a county official. Such abnormal payments are pure political graft, as a rule, and a legal way of raiding public funds because they are created by taxes upon the people at large.

Fulton county is a populous and rich community, growing more so every day, and the resources for a progressive but economical administration of its affairs are being annually amplified. Every citizen knows those facts, and knows they furnish no reason or justification for overloading the pay rolls with salaries flagrantly out of proportion with the services rendered.

The county commissioners cannot go wrong by putting the business of the county on the same basis as their own and paying no more for services to the public than they would pay for the same services to themselves.

ENDORSING STATE REFORMS.

While expressing jubilation over the democratic victory in Virginia there are features of it that should be studied by state government reformers in general, and especially in the southern states.

The campaign in Virginia over the governorship was not wholly one of personal preference. Both the candidates for governor were gentlemen of culture, character and public reputation, but they represented and advocated policies of state government that raised sharp divisions of public judgment.

The election of Pollard puts the seal of strong popular approval upon the short ballot for state officials. The governor, lieutenant governor and attorney-general were voted for, the heads of the recently consolidated twelve departments of administration being left to appointment by the governor. The legislature of 1927, on the insistence of Governor Byrd, adopted the plan and the people approved and now have reaffirmed it. The plan assures competent and responsible government.

The coalition savagely attacked the plan, demanding that all state major offices be again thrown open to the primaries and regular elections.

tions, but the big majority of the people has now repudiated such reaction and Virginia will continue to have one of the best adjusted state governments in the Union.

The Virginia verdict also confirms the system of taxation which has changed a state deficit of $4,000,000 four years ago into a $5,000,000 treasury surplus today. These are underlying reasons why the Virginians so largely endorsed their democratic party in Tuesday's election.

SAFE BRANCH BANKING.

The "urge to merge" has taken on nationwide extent and popularity. Concentrations of power, resources, expenses and efficiency are being made in manufactures, finance, transportation and general commerce. It is all a part of the great modern movement in conservatism of energy, mass production and economic distribution.

Now that great mergers are featuring the banking field, accented by consolidations of banks in New York, Detroit, Chicago, Atlanta and other cities, with capitalizations and resources of tremendous magnitude, the general business public is beginning to sense the practical consequences.

Perhaps the most practical result of these huge banking mergers will be the expansion of branch banking throughout their special areas. The advantages of having a strong bank operate branches is being proved by the experiences of the people wherever the plan has been undertaken.

Legal facilities for the purpose will follow popular demand for such branches. They have so many more ways of safely serving a community than a small and weak local bank that there is a rising demand in Georgia as elsewhere for the branch banks operated by a greater bank in a financial center. The strength of the parent bank and its affiliations supply a guaranty of the safety of deposits far greater than any legislated guaranty law.

In Massachusetts the legislature meeting in January next is being asked to have an official survey of the bank mergers in that state for the information of the people as to their advantages, safety and facilities for promoting industry and trade enterprises. The attorney-general of Michigan has just lately ruled that the laws of that state not only allow the bank mergers, but allow holding and investment trusts to own the majority or all the shares of such banks and operate a bank and its branches, all without peril to any private or public interest.

Under a fully legalized and insured branch banking system there would be small probability of wholesale sudden bank failures such as have happened in Iowa, or Georgia, or Florida, with the loss of many millions of dollars to innocent and helpless depositors.

Undoubtedly there will be in near years a widespread resort to the safer, safer and more economic plan of branch banking by the strong institutions of central cities.

WANTS THE FACTS KNOWN.

Governor Max O. Gardner, of North Carolina, has appealed to the industrial leaders of the state to get together and agree upon a thorough rational and just policy or coordinating the interests of employers and their employees.

In view of the recent disturbances in the textile labor fields of the state Governor Gardner urges that the true conditions be investigated and made known to all concerned. Whenever inequities exist they should be voluntarily corrected, for instance as between mill owners and their operatives. He knows personally and officially that actual conditions in the mill areas of the state have been grossly magnified and misrepresented to the country, and led to invasions by communistic fanatics not bent upon improving labor interests but upon embroiling the workers in enmities and riotous conflicts with lawful authorities.

The governor asks for a full, impartial and honest revelation of the policy of the labor employers and of the actual conditions prevailing among the workers. He wants a just and amicable status established between them as necessary to the peace and prosperity of both, as well as the good order and fame of the state.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Football and Can-Can.

The British Tommies are playing football with Jewish teams in Palestine these days, while the Arabs, not sharing the Western man's fondness of sport, entertain them by inviting them to witness the Arab can-can in the mysterious cafes of Jaffa's narrow streets. It's quite superfluous to say that the can-can finds more spectators than the football matches. Human nature simply is that way. The young recruits of the Welsh Guard who are patrolling Palestine towns and villages have seen football matches galore. The can-can is something new. It should also be added that the Arabs young ladies who execute the highly entertaining dance are not without charm. As a matter of fact for bodily perfection and rhythmic instinct they are hard to beat even in America, not to speak of Montmartre. It's even difficult to understand why the Arab girl of Jaffa is held on a fortnight. The can-can is danced every evening from 8 till 11, and the Arab effendi leaves no opportunity to win the goodwill and friendship of the Englishmen.

Sainte Beuve's Duel.

Seven duels were fought in Paris during the month of August and eight the previous month. Only one of the encounters was between literati. This is remarkable. A quarter century ago 90 per cent of the duels were between critics and authors. The former being generally challenged for having written some uncomplimentary remarks upon the players or playwrights. The duels were fought in the streets, and the duellists were of the gentlemanly style in taken into consideration. Clemenceau had his share of encounters on the field of honor. Most of these literary duels, it should be added, were bloodless affairs and generally ended in a reconciliation dinner. The last duel, however, ever staged was between Sainte Beuve and a rural author named Dubois. When the two combatants had taken up their positions and the pistol was suddenly started by the rural author, Sainte Beuve asked for an umbrella. "I don't mind being shot dead," he remarked, "but I refuse to get a soaking!" The duel was called off.

Forgotten Village.

Between Montfaucon and Verdun lies a small village, Septanges by name. This village was bombarded to pieces during the war. When peace came at last the remaining inhabitants went to work to erect a monument to their dead, nor has the parish church been restored so far. Here is the appeal by the Mayor of Septanges, received at Paris: "The war took every house in our commune, more than three quarters of our boys and men, our parish church and our town hall. Our people went to work heroically after the war clearing away the ruins, rebuilding. But our resources are slender. We haven't been able to raise the money for a memorial to our dead. Our church, the soul of our village, has not been rebuilt. We have 2,000 francs (50 dollars). It isn't enough. Is there anyone in this world who would come to our aid? Septanges looks upon her neighbors, Varennes, Montfaucon, Remilly, Nanteuil and Bellou, all rebuilt by American generosity. Many an American must remember the pile of broken masonry and charred ruins of the road to Montfaucon, and how, if human beings would ever be able to make anything out of it." Sermons To Live By

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY.

Text: "Godliness, with contentment, is great gain."—1 Timothy 6:6.

Contentment is a quality more noted in the breach than in the observance. Even those who eloquently preach it have been known to practice it very little. For example, it was told of an ancient Roman that few could so fascinate as present the picture of contentment and the rugged advantages of poverty in words as could he, while at the same time, he was greedily raking in the dirt and gold, and all the silver and gold that he could. Nor was this to be so much wondered at for while contentment appeared to be very modest, and a simple, characteristic, still it is rooted in the loftiest idealism, the most implicit faith and the most entire love for God.

Moreover, it is further rooted in the forgetfulness of self and the freedom from jealous and envious comparisons, the peace and prosperity and advantages of its fellow-men. In a word, it is doubly rooted in the first and great commandment and, in second place, in the love of one's neighbor, which is the life into it. Marvel not, therefore, that even so admirable a man as Paul said of himself, "I have learned, in whatsoever I do, I have therein to be content." Phil. 4:11.

Difficult, but not impossible to acquire, this virtue is well worth striving for.

Let us join Susan Hubbard Martin in her pleasing little song of "Contentment":

"A pot of ivy,
A curtain white;
Bread in the oven,
Brown and light;
Ticking there;
Books and papers,
In a easy chair;
Who cares for travel—
What it is;
It's so much better,
Where one lives."

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Something More To the Point About Our Professional Street Grafters.

One of the most eminent preachers of Atlanta said in his pulpit and over the radio, on Sunday evening, that the street beggars of Atlanta were costing the Community Chest probably $100,000 of subscriptions from the people. He mentioned what he had learned of the unwillingness of many good persons to contribute to the Community Chest and then have to suffer the pleas, whether sincere or not, of the professional beggars flooding—and that is not speaking extravagantly—the central streets of the city.

I could easily add to the statement of the distinguished minister by printing here a whole page of letters sent to me in the last month commending and re-enforcing my published protests in this column against the suffering of those thoroughfare panhandlers. I did not publish them seriatim because I did not want to add to the difficulty of the Community Chest in obtaining its needed quota.

The Chest, headed by Harry M. Atkinson, is an essential institution of the city. It is eminently worthy of public support or Atkinson would not consent to head it for a minute. And if given what it needs and asks for it will religiously and humanely perform its promised functions through its dependent agencies, and take care of every case of genuine charity need in our generous city.

Chief Beavers Jarred My Store Teeth.

The most surprising thing to me about this beggar business is the reported attitude of Chief of Police Jim Beavers toward the panhandlers. Every good man, woman and child in Atlanta who knows Chief Beavers and his unexcelled record as our police director knows the great Christian humane heart that beats behind his bright gold badge. That he sympathizes with the poor and the unfortunate is no news. Such sympathy is imbedded in his noble make-up. We all agree to that.

But when he puts up a plea of tolerance and freedom for the gang of self-elected beggars who are shameless enough to squalor around or parade around on our streets he puts an insufferable strain upon the knowledge and common sense of the community. He may, indeed, know some cases of poverty and need among the gentry, but they are as few as white blackbirds. Careful investigations by reliable charity workers have failed to bring up any successful denial.

Having the brains and spirit to be the wonderful police chief that he is, he has the brains to know that he is being deceived by the people of Atlanta to protect them from unwholesome beggars as well as from thugs, thieves, and bank robbers. And he must know that the beggars he is protecting are not really charity workers but professional street peddlers. If any one of them was confined to what he or she gets from the sales of pencils, gum and needles, he would not stay on the street ten minutes. They are the meanest sort of grafters because they work on the hearts of kind people with false pretenses.

Mayor Ransome has illusions about the street fake peddlers. He knows they are mostly frauds and that they demean the city of which he is chief magistrate. I love and admire Chief Beavers too much to believe that he is deceived by them.

We are going to fill up the Community Chest, of course, and it will take care of every honest poor deacon, but we must not let the square deal to give our liberal people is to rid them of the presence and pleas of professional beggars, with or without pencils.

King Returns Georgian, Minus To Social Swirl; $90,000 in Race Fills Three Dates Swindle, Returns

London, November 7.—(AP)—King George got back into the full stride of London social life today for the first time since he was stricken ill nearly a year ago. He had engagements for the afternoon and for dinner and then attended a performance of the American musical play, "Rose Marie," at Drury Lane theater.

This afternoon the king called upon his sister, the Princess Royal, in her Portland Square home. When he returned to the city he was met by his daughter, Princess Mary, at tea. Later the Duke and Duchess of York dined with the king and queen and then all four went to the theater.

Although he had witnessed the same musical comedy three times before the king selected it again for the first theater party in many months. When he and the queen and their son and daughter-in-law entered the royal box the audience cheered for several minutes.

The king smiled and bowed. He wore evening dress with a white flower in his buttonhole. The queen wore a gold dress with a long train and a gold tiara. The princess Mary wore a blue dress with a long train. The king and queen were accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of York.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

GOING OUT AFTER A BATH.

In a recent health questionnaire answered by more than 900 of our readers on this question:

Is it dangerous to go out in the cold immediately after a hot bath? Give reason for your answer.

One hundred thirty-one readers believe it is dangerous, but offer no reason for thinking so. Two hundred twelve readers think it might be a risky thing to do under some circumstances, and most of them suggest a reason. All the rest declare there is no harm in doing so, and many of them explain they have often done it and never noticed any ill effect.

That 584 out of 930 readers of this column do not "take cold," to the best of their knowledge and belief, from such a sudden change, and harbor no fear that such "carelessness" is likely to do any harm, is very encouraging to me, and I should think it ought to give some of my old foggy colleagues a degree of anxiety. I can't put my hand on a single physician or health authority of standing who actually asserts that this sort of thing will give anybody a "cold" or even that it will make one more susceptible to infection, but I submit that such is the inference an intelligent person must draw from the advice or instruction handed out by the health authorities from time to time. Especially the old-timers who warn the dear public against getting the feet wet, or wearing insufficient clothing in cold or raw weather, when there's a good deal of grip or flu or anything like that prevalent. It seems silly that a health commissioner of a great city or province or the chief of the public health bureau of the national government should publish such warnings, but they do, with a perfunctory solemn face, too.

Suppose you indulge in an hour or two of unusually hard work or play, get all in a sweat, then sit down to cool off in a draft, breeze or wind. And you ask me, "Will you give me a cold?" There is a fine chance you will get a lumbago or some such lameness of muscles, or maybe a "glass arm." It is a sort of cold, but it is not a cold. You have gotten heated up. In this instance it is from greatly increased combustion in your muscles; the combustion of fuel (blood sugar) leaves considerable waste matter or ash of more or less acid character (carbon dioxide, lactic acid compounds) in the muscles to be removed through the circulation. If you suddenly check the circulation or retard it by cold on the surface an excess of the waste material remains in and near the muscles, and incomes the muscles. That's how such conditions as lumbago and lame arms happen. (The "glass arm" of the baseball pitcher is the same thing, the "chance" of a Russian bath should appreciate this. Any woman who has done a big wash on a cold day, then hopped right out to hang the clothes on a line, knows she will suffer no ill effects worse than a lame shoulder.

Incidentally, athletes in fair training are unlikely to suffer this lame-ness, though they take no pains to prevent it.

Relief workers returning from El Palmar and the district affected by the eruption of Santa Maria volcano, today brought back lurid tales of the deaths in the localities invaded by the molten lava.

At least eight coffee plantations were completely destroyed and some of their population perished. Most were caught in the fields by the fiery stream and others had barricaded themselves in their homes as if believing that they could thereby escape. These latter died slow deaths by asphyxiation. Some of them had realized that the end was approaching and had composed themselves for it. Others showed evidence of having gone through great agony.

In the fields and along the roads many of the bodies were almost unrecognizable. At one place members of a Marican band had climbed into a tree to escape the lava. The relief funds for survivors of the visitation are being collected by Rotarians and Boy Scouts and through the Red Cross.

HAZARDS OF SURVIVORS.

Havana, November 7.—(AP)—The Guatemala city office of the Compañia Cubana Radio-Telegrafos Intercomunicacion today informed its office here that terrific rains set in immediately after cessation of the volcanic eruptions and were adding to the misery of the hundreds of families left homeless by the flow of lava.

Highways between Palmar and the nearby town of Hacienda Enriqueta were described as being covered with refugees driving cattle and wheeling personal belongings saved from the disaster.

The Guatemalan government was reported to have sent large forces from the sanitation department into the stricken area to render assistance and to clear away the debris for the early reconstruction of the country.

Guatemala was caring for many homeless at two stations. Boy Scouts were participating in the work of rendering aid.

Guatemala city papers were quoted as saying that approximately 25,000 persons were affected by the disaster and that more than $1,000,000 damage was caused in the Palmar area.

An official telegram to the Guatemalan war department was quoted as saying that the Palmar zone was covered by lava and ashes and the air was filled with strong sulphur fumes.

The Beginning of Honest Merchandising Was the Adoption of a Standard Measure

By Robert Quillen

Too many Americans are ashamed of the wrong things. A nation of reformers, consecrated to the business of uplifting and saving one another, we work at cross purposes and get nowhere because we can't agree on a definition of right.

Definitions of morality are as numerous as moralists. When we urge the good to be good, our intention and desire is that it should become as good as we are.

The result is confusion and waste of effort. The world sees many signposts, pointing many ways, and says to itself: "Since the guides can't agree, it is clear that some of them are wrong. And since I have no way of knowing which is infallible, I shall use my own judgment and trust none of them."

Why do the guides disagree? Why does an act seem wicked to one man and harmless to another?

It is a matter of taste and capacity. If you enjoy a thing, you can find a way to convince yourself there is no harm in it. And if others enjoy a thing for which you have no capacity, envy prompts you to condemn it. The grapes we cannot reach are sour.

It would seem possible for each to condemn the things he cannot share and then join with other moralists in putting down the things they find no pleasure in, but such cooperation is beyond the powers of ordinary men.

Each individual seems to possess just so much zeal for righteousness. When his capacity is exhausted, he crusades no more. And since the goal of each man's righteousness is self-respect, when he has done enough to win his own approval he has no incentive to go further.

Thus a man who cleans his community of one evil that seems an abomination to him will be indifferent when his attention is called to another, and a man who overcomes the temptation to get drunk may cheat without losing his self-respect.

A great metropolis purges itself of naughty literature and tolerates a "white slave ring." Villagers deny themselves wine, cards and dancing, and thus develop a self-respect sufficient to survive "beating" their debts and slandering one another in secret.

The greatest need of civilization is a universal standard of decency, officially established, and unaffected by individual taste or local prejudice. You can't make a land prosperous while each community uses a different currency and each individual gives it a different value.

ACCUSES GRAND JUROR ARNOLD LETTERS IN STRIKE KILLING READ AT PROBE

Gastonia, N. C., November 7.—(AP)—Assertion by a witness in Judge Pender A. McElroy's inquiry into the death of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins that the member of the Gaston county grand jury "looked like" one of the men in the mob which on September 14 chased a group of Bessemer City residents from a strike camp, today caused the entire personnel of the grand jury to be summoned to appear at the inquiry.

The statement came without warning during morning session of the inquiry when Howard Shupe, a distant cousin of the dead woman, was recalled to the witness stand and said that he had told a juror, who he said was a member of the grand jury, that a member of the grand jury looked like a member of the mob. Shupe said that he had told members of the grand jury that he had seen a member of the mob in a car that pursued a truck in which the Bessemer City workers had started to south Gastonia to attend a communist meeting.

The statement created a sensation in the courtroom and caused Solicitor John G. Carpenter to halt proceedings. Although several witnesses were called, the grand jury investigation of the slaying two weeks ago failed to return indictments against anyone.

Mrs. Wiggins was shot and killed when the truck collided with a passenger car on the highway near Gastonia. The slayer has never been determined, although several witnesses in the hearing have asserted that Horace Wheeler, Loray mill worker, fired a pistol shot into the truck. Wheeler is charged with murder and conspiracy to murder. The others held are Jack Carver, W. M. Borders, Troy Jones, Fred T. Morrow, E. T. Hagyard, L. M. Sossamon, Elmer Davis, O. H. Lundsford, Theodore Simms, George Fowler, Howard West, Roy Carver, W. H. Holbrooks, L. H. Thompson and John G. Gamble.

Although the members of the grand jury were not ordered to appear until tomorrow, three of them came into the courtroom and were sworn in by the judge. The grand jury investigation of the slaying was held on September 14 and was not with the mob and the matter was dropped.

Shupe came into court this afternoon, but Shupe was not then present. After Shupe had told a story similar to that of Almond he was ordered to return tomorrow, when Shupe would be in court.

Judge McElroy announced today that if the hearing lasts until next week he would not hold court on Monday. He said that the hearing was very similar to those told by others on previous days.

G. R. Spencer, superintendent of the American mill, No. 2, at Bessemer City, was passing on the highway at the moment of the collision, testified that he saw the collision. He asserted that he did not hear a shot fired, but that he saw a man who he said he heard some shooting in a field.

COFFEE ROASTERS REFUSE TO O. K. PLAN TO MERGE

New Orleans, November 7.—(AP)—The National Coffee Roasters Association today declined to endorse a proposal for the merger of all coffee interests into one central organization as suggested by Felix Coste, retiring secretary of the association.

While declining to formally merge, the association pledged its co-operation with other branches of the industry. The story of the various witnesses was very similar to those told by others on previous days.

New York city was chosen for next year's convention by the National Coffee Roasters Association and R. W. McCreery, of Davenport, Iowa, was re-elected president along with all of the other officers.

Members of the board are H. G. Gocio, A. G. McEachern and T. M. Wreede.

CHEST AIDS RAGSDALE
IN ROW OVER BEGGARS

Opposition Is Voiced to the Policy Adopted By Chief Beavers.

As an aid in its program of helpfulness, the Atlanta Community Chest through its executive committee Thursday gave formal commendation to Mayor Ragsdale's efforts to rid the streets of beggars, which, according to published reports, have been thwarted by the policy of Police Chief Beavers to permit them to continue operation.

The Community Chest has offered in connection with its annual appeal for public support of its 39 societies of social service to give shelter and care to worthy cases, as well as help toward self-support and permanent independence, pointing to its establishment of the Community Shop to give employment to men and women handicapped by blindness and other afflictions. The executive committee adopted yesterday the following resolutions:

"We strongly approve the action of the mayor of Atlanta in instructing the police department to remove from the streets of Atlanta the beggars, or 'littered peddlers,' who solicit alms. This ever-present problem has been agitated for years, and public sentiment in Atlanta is strongly in favor of the removal of these mendicants. The Community Chest, as repeatedly stated in the past, has offered to investigate and provide for each worthy beggar either by placing them in a home or an institution where they can earn a living.

"Be it resolved, therefore, that we urge the mayor to stand firm in his position and not to permit natural sympathy for these mendicants to override the tactics of sound civic policy and practical business methods of dealing with these people.

"Be it further resolved, that we thank the mayor for his efforts along this line and bespeak for him the approval and wholehearted support of every loyal citizen of Atlanta.

The annual appeal of the Chest was continued this week through a committee representative of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a band of women named by Mrs. John R. Hornady, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, and a group of volunteers organized in the effort to carry past $400,000 the sum of contributions by the Atlanta public. This effort, according to Henry C. Heinz, chairman of the executive committee, will be continued until every man and woman in Atlanta will have been given an opportunity to participate in the work of human helpfulness.

Hale Opens in New Store

New quarters of James G. Hale & Co., clothiers, at Decatur and Pryor streets. The firm will hold its formal opening today.

James G. Hale & Co. will hold its formal opening today in its new building at the corner of Pryor and Decatur streets, with a complete new line merchandise including articles to "clothe the whole family."

The company is under the management of James G. Hale, well and favorably known in the clothing business in Atlanta. Mr. Hale organized his own business four years ago, and before that time was a member of the firm of Blackstock, Hale, Morgan & Co. for 15 years.

Mr. Hale's first store was located at 30 Peachtree street and a little more than two years ago he established another house at Pryor and Decatur streets, buying the firm of McDonald & Strickland, across the street from his present location and operating there until a few weeks ago, when he moved.

In this building, which has four stories, Mr. Hale feels that he is in a much better position to serve his customers. The new store permits the expansion of departments with larger stocks, as well as providing space for new departments.

Heretofore the company has catered principally to men, but in the new store complete new lines of women's and misses' ready-to-wear have been included, the department being conveniently located and the goods displayed to advantage.

Mr. Hale recently returned from New York, where he purchased stock in the new store. He says that he has one of the largest stocks of men's and boys' clothing in Atlanta, and is the exclusive agent for Duck Head work clothes in this territory.

The expansion of the store has required the addition of personnel. In the women's ready-to-wear department are Mrs. Minnie Webb and Mrs. Alice Snider. Charles A. Laudermilk is in charge of the men's and boys' clothing department; S. R. Lemon, women's shoe department; J. H. Kinsey, men's shoes; W. R. Jones, work clothes department; and Dave Cohen, men's furnishings. Perry Phillips is the window trimmer and Mrs. H. Morris is in charge of the office.

The fire of undetermined origin late Wednesday night destroyed a quantity of the stock and fixtures of the Atlanta Dental Supply Company in the Gould building at Five Points.

After an hour's work by firemen from stations 1, 2, 3, 4 and 8, the flames were confined to the seventh floor and a portion of the roof.

It was announced Thursday by officials of the company that business would be resumed Saturday. An estimate of the damage had been made.

U. S. BUSINESS SOUND,
ELLIS TELLS C. OF C.

Not Seriously Affected By
Big Stock Breaks, Visitor Asserts.

Declaring that American business is fundamentally sound and that it will not be seriously or permanently affected by the recent Wall Street break, Robert R. Ellis, vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a nationally known figure in the wholesale drug trade, told the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Thursday that the drop in stock prices was inevitable, but not highly injurious to the country as a whole.

Mr. Ellis, for years a wholesale druggist in Memphis, was the guest of honor and principal speaker at a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce building Thursday afternoon given by the board of directors. Philip Alston, president of the organization, presided and William Candler, prominent Atlanta business man and a member of the board of directors of the national body, introduced the speaker.

Mr. Ellis urged a closer contact between local Chambers of Commerce and the national chamber as well as more co-operation between local business firms and local chambers.

"The national chamber is one of the greatest organizations in the country," Mr. Ellis declared, "and one capable of being of the greatest service to you in many ways. It is up to you to use its facilities and to reap the benefits of the experience and ideas of some of the leading business men in the United States."

Referring to the "chain stores" of the present day, Mr. Ellis declared that they hold no threats for the independent if they move progressively in the new method of merchandising which the chain stores have forced upon their consciousness.

LITTLE INFECTED
CATTLE IN STATE,
SUTTON REPORTS

Seventeen Georgia counties are free from tubercular infection of cattle and seven others are undertaking the work of ridding their cattle of the disease, it was announced Thursday by Dr. J. M. Sutton, state veterinarian.

"From the standpoint of human health, the eradication of the disease from cattle is one of the most important tasks a county can undertake," Dr. Sutton declared. "It has been proven definitely that tuberculosis can be transmitted through milk. The inspection of cattle by experts is necessary since cows which appear healthy may be carriers of the tuberculosis bacilli. Every cow in the county is tested when a county program is undertaken. They are injected with tuberculin and their reaction to the test is observed."

Cattle found infected with the disease are killed. Counties now free from the disease are: Dade, Catoosa, Walker, Whitfield, Murry, Gilmer, Chattooga, Gordon, Bartow, Union, Towns, Rabun, White, Wilkes, Fannin, Pickens and Floyd.

Eradication work is now being carried on in Dawson, Lumpkin, Haralson, Douglas, Paulding, Cobb and Carroll counties.

WISER THAN THE WISEST

One Great Scholar Likens System of Words to Amber

A wise man has said that a language often will be wiser, not merely than the ignorant, but even wiser than the wisest who speak it. He likens it to amber in embalming and preserving the relics of ancient wisdom, although one is often somewhat puzzled to decipher its contents.

Sometimes it looks up truths which a one time were well known, but which in the course of ages have passed out of sight and been forgotten. Again it holds the germs of truth, the genius of its framers caught a glimpse in a happy moment of inspiration. This is why language is so important in every age and to every person.

Being the best vehicle through which to study language and acquire new words, the Dictionary is a necessity in every age and to every person. In this day of intense competition, words can literally be turned into dollars. So the Dictionary offer is a boon to all readers. The coupon printed elsewhere in today's paper shows how to acquire it. (adv.)

G. M. A. Meets Russell High Today in Prep Grid Feature

SMITHIES OFF FOR CHARLOTTE AND BIG GAME

Marist Meets Griffin High On Campus In Spectacular Game.

By Roy White.

G. M. A. and Russell High, running a close race for third place honors in the city prep league race, will settle the issue at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the East Point grid-iron, just back of the school, in Jefferson Park. G. M. A. has lost only one game in city circles and Russell also has lost only one game within the local ranks.

Marist, after two open dates, will play Griffin High at 3 o'clock on the Marist campus. Marist and the Russell-G. M. A. games are the only ones to be played on local soil during the week-end.

Tech High will leave early this morning for Charlotte, N. C., where the Smithies will play Central High, of Charlotte, in a dedication game Saturday afternoon. All city and school officials are looking for a crowd of 8,000 persons to witness the game Saturday and elaborate preparations are being made for a big time.

Commercial High will play at Carversville this afternoon, and Decatur Continued on Fourth Sport Page.

AUBURN SQUAD OFF TO MEET TULANE'S WAVE

Auburn, Ala., November 7. The final workout before they departed for New Orleans, where they will meet the heavy Green Wave Saturday afternoon, found the Auburn Tigers experiencing the same conditions that they went through last Saturday in Knoxville playing on a muddy field. A steady downpour during the day turned Drake field into a typical swamp and Coach Floyd called off a scheduled scrimmage and sent his charges through a dummy scrimmage against the scrubs who walked through Tulane players.

The team departed for the Crescent City after the Auburn student body had showed that they are still bumbling in preparation for the game by staging a mammoth torchlight parade in their honor before they boarded the Pullmans. Twenty-three players were taken to New Orleans. The probable line-up for the Tulane game is: Egge and McCree, ends; Newton and Taylor, tackles; G. Long and Captain H. Long, guards; Harbin, center; Davidson, quarterback; Young and Hatfield, halfbacks; and Chappelle, fullback. Porter Callahan might be selected to start at half in place of Young or Hatfield.

Longshots Upset Racing Sheets

New York, November 7. (AP)—Maryland racing fans turned today from flat racing to watch the jumpers battle for the master of fox hounds steeplechase purse in the feature race over the trying three miles of brush at Pimlico.

A. F. Goodwin produced the winner in the Maryland, who scored an easy victory, covering the course in 6:16.4-5. The Goodwin jumper finished five lengths in front of W. A. Phillips' Knowna Hero to win the $1,500 purse. James Simpson, Jr.'s Kiarinski was third, with Dublin Goods and Crack Willow, the favorites, far out of the money.

The form sheet players again took it on the chin as the long shots scored heavily. Titus went over in the opening number, defeating the highly regarded Frumper, to pay $22.50 for a $2 win ticket. In the second race Macil won, rewarding his scattered backers $72.50 for every $2 invested at the straight window. Jockey H. Elston was suspended for the remainder of the meeting for his unsatisfactory ride on Gay Past in the second race.

At Latonia K. Russell and C. Meyer enjoyed one of their great days, each booting home three winners. Russell was up on Coby in the second, Hamilton in the feature number, and Louisville Lou in the seventh, while Meyer had a leg on Lee Cooper, Little Captain and Pike's Peak. In addition, Russell had one second.

Racing continued at Arlington Downs in Texas with the plain clothes men still on the job to prevent any wagering. A large crowd, however, was present to see the Threes' stable score a victory in the feature race with Zacawista.

Palm Beach High Team Suspended

West Palm Beach, Fla., November 7. (AP)—Suspension of Palm Beach High school from the Big Twelve State Athletic Association until January 1, 1936, and forfeiture of all but one of the school's football games for this year was announced today by Principal H. E. Spaulding.

The suspension resulted from the use of five football players in two games this season after they had been declared ineligible by association officials, the principal said. The players were held ineligible because they did not attend school last year.

The remaining game on the school's schedule will be played here Armistice Day with the Miami University freshman team.

The reserves' plays and throwing the ball carrier of the reserves for loss after loss. The criss-cross formation of the Tuskegee team failed to be of any value to the reserves, as on each occasion the ball carrier of the reserves lost ground.

In The Grid Camps

IRISH FAVORED

Chicago, November 7. (United News)—Notre Dame will play before more than 60,000 fans Saturday when the Irish meet Drake on Soldiers field. Drake boasts a light, but fast team, with Loran "Mighty Atom" King, a 147-pound back, as its star. King has counted 52 points this fall, ranking fourth among the country's leading scorers. The Irish are expected to win by three touchdowns.

STUDENTS SEE GAME

Ann Arbor, November 7. (United News)—Four special trains from the east will bring more than 750 students direct from Harvard, with the Crimson football team and the 80-piece band for Saturday's game with Michigan. More than 12,000 Harvard alumni will be among the 80,000 fans to see the game.

MAROONS PEPPED UP

Chicago, November 7. (United News)—Encouraged by their defeat of Princeton last week, the Chicago Maroons have shown more spirit this week in preparing for Wisconsin than they did all season.

Coach Stagg has concentrated on defense and forward passing. A crowd of 40,000 is expected to see the game.

STIFF BATTLE

Iowa City, November 7. (United News)—Iowa meets Minnesota here Saturday in the most important game in the Big Ten conference, and Coach Burt Ingwersen has his team in a fighting spirit after a hard week's practice.

If the Iowans should topple the mighty Gophers, it would be the biggest upset of the day and might rob

Minnesota of the title. A crowd of 40,000 or more is expected to attend.

COLUMBIA FACES SCRUBS

New York, November 7. (United News)—Columbia today, Coach Charley Crowley sending the junior varsity against the first eleven. The Jayvees have been drilling in Colgate plays for more than one week and were somewhat successful with them against the first stringers.

VACANCY FILLED

New York, November 7. (United News)—New York University Violets had much hard work today making ready for the Georgia game Saturday.

A new combination was tried out, with George Chalmers, regular guard, playing at end in place of Charlie Marshall, who broke an ankle last Saturday. Ross Grant and George Murphy were tried at the vacated guard place.

MIDDIES SCRIMMAGE

Annapolis, Md., November 7. (United News)—Navy gridders today finished their heavy work in preparation for the game with Georgetown Saturday.

Signal and formation drills were followed by a stiff scrimmage session, and the coaches lectured the whole squad on the strategic points to be employed in the game.

DARTMOUTH LOSES EDGE

Providence, R. I., November 7. (United News)—Brown's chances of defeating Dartmouth Saturday seemed almost even today with the certainty that Al "Special Delivery" Masters, Green star and country's highest point scorer, would not play.

The Bruins will probably start the eleven which faced Holy Cross in Brown's 18-to-14 victory Saturday.

Veteran Racing Writer Dead

Dallas, Texas, November 7. (United News)—John L. Dempsey, considered the dean among race track chatters in this country, was found dead in his room at the Adolphus hotel today. He was 53.

Dempsey, who was here attending the Arlington Downs racing meet, died of heart disease, hotel physicians said. His body was discovered when he failed to answer a telephone call.

He is the fifth prominent racing figure who has died within several months. The others were John E. Madden, Sam Hildreth, Jimmy Rowe and Marc Cassidy.

Dempsey was of Danish stock and came to this country in the steerage with his parents at the age of eight. He became a newsboy in New York city and eventually drifted to the race tracks.

After an apprenticeship as exercise boy, caller and reporter, he was named official caller in the west by the late Harry Weldon, of Cincinnati. Later he went to work for Frank Brunell after the latter started the racing form. He continued with this publication until his death.

He is survived by his wife. His home was in New Orleans.

Mexican Stadium Seats 60,000 Fans

Mexico City has a modern stadium of concrete and steel that seats 60,000. It was there the Louisiana college beat the University of Mexico at football, 59 to 0. As soon as the Mexicans gain a better knowledge of the game they will prove worthy opponents of the American collegians, was the opinion voiced by some of the experts.

Georgia Basket Practice Starts

Athens, Ga., November 7. (United News)—Basketball practice got under way here today when Coach H. J. Stegeman started all of the varsity candidates not out for football to work under George Keene, all-southern forward in 1927. The candidates will work out three times a week until the first of December when practice will be held daily.

In contrast to last year when Coach Stegeman had less than a dozen candidates to report for tryout, there will be a world of material to choose from this season. Captain Henry Palmer, Joe Martin, Sanford Sanford, Anderson and Tommy Reed, all lettermen, from last year, will be back when the season opens. Palmer, who is one of the Bulldog flankmen, will not report to practice until after the Tech game on December 7, but the rest of the men are now working out in Woodruff hall.

A number of good players will come up from last year's freshman team, and several of the reserves from the varsity are expected to show up well this season. The last year's freshman team will send up such men as Vernon Smith, Tommy Moran, Clyde Staniel, Lefty Simpson, Red Leath, Bill Mell, Willie Bryant, and Strickland, while Hoke Hill, Shorty Frye, John Davidson are promising reserves from last year's team.

Wood, Harvard Sophomore back, knew Harvard was trailing Army by 7 points with 3 minutes to play. Cool, accurate, Mr. Wood threw a 55 yard forward pass for a touchdown, then kicked a goal for the extra point, which tied the game. A good finish is important in football. In dress it's everything. Tennessee Tackle Sustains Injury

Knoxville, Tenn., November 7. (AP)—The jinx that seems to dog University of Tennessee football tackles was at work again today. Jake Johnston was out with an injured foot, which has incapacitated him before.

His running mate, Captain Howard Johnson, who has been out most of the season with a bad instep, was shifted to his position and Saunders, soph tackle, was boosted to the first string.

Coaches hope Johnston's injury will be healed in time for the Vandy-Tennessee game Saturday week. His loss will not be felt next Saturday, as reserves will do most of the playing against Carson-Newman.

Johnny Dundee To Fight Tuesday

New York, November 7. (United News)—Johnny Dundee, of New York, former featherweight champion, has not retired from the ring. He will meet George Goldberg, of Brooklyn, in the 10-round main bout at the Broadway arena, Brooklyn, Tuesday night.

TUSKEGEE TEAM OFF TO ATLANTA

Colored Football Squad Ready for Morris Brown Battle.

Tuskegee's great football machine consisting of 30 players will arrive this morning in Chehaw, Ala., for Atlanta and the game with Morris Brown Saturday afternoon.

Prominent among the Tigers who will lead the Tuskegee attack are Stevenson, Johnson, Shanklin, Harrison, Champion, Tom Harris, Robinson and Duncan. They are all veterans in these parts with the exception of Johnson, who is a recruit, and considered the best find of the year.

The famous Tuskegee band will arrive Saturday morning by bus, and will parade the downtown section of the city under the direction of Frank Dye, who has made the Tiger band one of the most talked of aggregations of musicians in America among their race.

Tuskegee will meet a tough foe in the Wolverines with three triple threat men, Tyler, Shag Jones and Credell, versatile halfbacks.

LONG HAINS. In scrimmage Thursday with the reserves using Tuskegee formations and plays Shag Jones made some long gains off tackle and around the flanks. Nolan, the plunging halfback, was at all times a menace to the reserves. The varsity's aerial attack proved baffling to the second string men in the first half.

Every man on the varsity saw at least eight minutes' work. Specs Bright, the Chicago sensation, was the only regular that the reserve could hold. In the closing moments of the scrimmage, however, he got off for 35 yards through left guard, while Credell gave him perfect interference.

The varsity line showed powerful strength throughout the session. Thorpe, at guard, adding a tower of strength. Daniels, in the line at center, was charging hard and opening big gaps in the rat defense.

Clay and Thornton, flankmen, made beautiful catches of passes and were down under every punt, catching the would-be ball carrier dead in his tracks.

The new system of attack put into play by Coach Cannady for this game was used successfully and the whole workout was pleasing to the mentors who announced after the workout that they were ready for this important game which will hold the spotlight in the Southeastern Conference.

LINE IN SHAPE. Coach Lockhart, who has been handling the line for this battle, said that the forward wall was charging at its best this season. At the snap of the oval the rush line went about smearing

the reserves' plays and throwing the ball carrier of the reserves for loss after loss. The criss-cross formation of the Tuskegee team failed to be of any value to the reserves, as on each occasion the ball carrier of the reserves lost ground.

Coach Roper Picks Vanderbilt To Defeat Tech Saturday

ARMY, HARVARD DOPED TO LOSE TO WESTERNERS

Princeton Coach and Expert Sees Victory for Big Green.

By W. W. Roper,
Princeton Football Coach.

The football games that stand out this week are Harvard-Michigan, Penn-Penn State, Army-Illinois, Navy-Georgetown and Dartmouth-Brown.

Harvard and the Army invade the middle west against potentially powerful teams. Although Michigan has been beaten by Purdue, Ohio State and Illinois, it has a big, rugged team, and I look for it to win from Harvard. Michigan has had two weeks' rest, and Harvard has had three hard games in a row. On top of these comes the long trip to Ann Arbor. It looks like Michigan's chance.

It looks as if the Army would have a hard game with Illinois, and though Army has a strong team and a fine backfield I pick Illinois to win. Illinois was defeated for the first time last Saturday by Northwestern, but the game was close and hard-fought. Zuppke has a fine passing attack, and I think he has a great chance to beat the Army by the air. But it will be a close game.

Pennsylvania meets Penn State, and though the game will be hard-fought Penn should win. They put up a great game against the Navy last Saturday, and should do equally well if not better against Penn State. Last year Penn won, 14-0. State has a great back in Dietrich. He played a fine game against Syracuse last Saturday.

CLOSE GAME.
The Navy-Georgetown game will be close, and it's hard to pick a winner. Georgetown played a beautiful game against N. Y. U. last Saturday, winning, 14-0. They showed a powerful and varied attack. Their backs are fast and versatile. Against this Navy has a strong, powerful team, with interference as good as any I have seen. Spring and Clifton are very strong in the backfield.

Dartmouth meets Brown, and it looks like a Dartmouth victory. I don't think Brown a match for Dartmouth this year, though they will put up a good fight. Dartmouth has a strong team and should stage a comeback after the defeat by Yale despite Marsters' absence from the lineup.

The Princeton-Lehigh game will be close. Lehigh has a big, heavy team, one of the best for several years. They put up a splendid game against Penn. Princeton, except for the Navy game, has shown nothing.

YALE WARY.
Yale, remembering last year's defeat by Maryland, when they were on the short end of a 6-0 score, will take no chances, but should have little trouble winning. Yale, after beating Army and Dartmouth, looks very strong.

Cornell should have little trouble with Western Reserve, and Syracuse should win easily from Niagara. The Pittsburgh-W. J. game should be won by Pitt.

Columbia meets Colgate, and I pick Colgate. The game, however, should be close. Another game in New York tomorrow is N. Y. U.-Georgia. This will be close, and anybody's choice. N. Y. U. will probably stage a strong comeback after her defeat by Georgetown. Lafayette plays Rutgers and should win. Last year she won, 16-0.

WILLIAMS PICKED.
Williams meets one of her rivals in the "Little Three" when she plays Wesleyan. Williams should win. Amherst and Tufts play at Amherst. I pick Amherst, but Tufts will put up a good fight. The game should be close.

Fordham should win from Boston College and Swarthmore from Johns Hopkins. Temple meets Gallaudet, and should find this game easier than the three preceding. Holy Cross should have little trouble defeating Boston University.

Villanova will have a hard game with Bucknell and I pick Bucknell. It will be a good game, as both have strong teams, but Bucknell looks the better. Pennsylvania Military college

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

Bill Roper, coach of the Princeton football team, in a radio talk on the game, suggested that the average spectator cheats himself every Saturday by watching the ball and its progress, or lack of it, to the exclusion of everything else on the field.

The Tiger leader suggested that the spectator might properly divide the game into four parts, the number of periods of a game. He would have the customers look at the ball throughout the first period just as a majority do now through the whole game.

At the beginning of the second period the spectators could with profit forget all about the ball and keep their eyes glued on the work of the offensive line, watching intently as the forwards charged against the opposition, cleaning up for the man with the ball following close behind.

After the intermission at the start of the third period the Roper recipe called for a sharp shift from offense to defense. Ignoring the offense the customers could with profit, he said, spend this entire period observing the tactics of the defensive linemen in meeting the attack.

With a clear idea of the offensive and defensive strength and strategy the final period would be left for a putting together of the picture of the game as a whole.

Mr. Roper said frankly, in his address, that he was advising his hearers to do as he told them and not as he does football games for he sees little of the game from his seat on the Princeton bench. No coach does. A coach is too occupied watching the play of his own team to see much that is done by the opposition. At the start he "sizes up" the tactics of the opposing team for reference later but his idea of the other team's play is hazy to say the least.

Three coaches once were asked about the ability of a player on a team played by all three. Two could remember nothing of his play, and were unable even to give an idea of his appearance. The third said, "He must have been pretty good. They were making a lot of good tackles against us and I heard he was doing most of it."

One coach followed a practice of taking a stenographer with him to the bench when the game started. Every word the coach said, no matter how irrelevant it sounded at the moment, was noted. At skull practices following the games, the coach read the remarks made in the heat of battle. Some of the expressions could be read but never could have been printed in a family newspaper.

At another university, an assistant coach sat in the stands far above the playing field, with glasses watching the moves on the field. At his side was a writing machine similar to the type used in banks by paying tellers to ask "Is this check good?" when a piece of paper is presented of which he may have his doubts. The assistant coach wrote steadily and possibly some of his observations were read with profit by the head coach on the bench.

should beat Dickinson and Haverford should win from Hamilton. Virginia Poly should win from Virginia and V. M. I. should have little trouble with Clemson, though last year it lost to Clemson, 6-12.

Georgia Tech journeys to Nashville to play Vanderbilt and it looks like a Vanderbilt victory. Vanderbilt so far has a clean record in the Southern conference.

Last year Texas played Baylor 0-0, but I look for Texas to win this year. Tennessee should have no trouble defeating Carson-Newman and Purdue should defeat Mississippi.

Army, Harvard Head Westward.

New York, November 7.—(United News.)—Two of the east's leading football eleven—Army and Harvard—headed west tonight for an invasion of the Big Ten.

The Harvard squad of more than 40 players, coaches, trainers and others left Boston in mid-afternoon for Ann Arbor, where the Crimson will play Michigan Saturday. After practicing in the Michigan stadium Friday afternoon the Harvard squad will retire to a country club 40 miles from the scene of the game.

In good physical condition and supremely confident of victory, the Army squad departed late today from West Point for Urbana, where the Cadets meet the University of Illinois Saturday.

Today's practice was curtailed by Head Coach Bliff Jones to permit the players ample time to get ready for the railroad journey.

The only recent change in the Army lineup is the return to quarterback of Bowman, who has replaced Gibner. Chris Cagle and Johnny Murrell are expected to shoulder the burden of the Army attack.

Coach Horween, of Harvard, expects to start a comparatively light backfield against Michigan. Present plans call for Wood to play quarterback, Putnam and Devens, halfbacks, and Harper, fullback.

Harvard and Army each have been tied and beaten once. They played a 20-20 tie and Harvard lost to Dartmouth, 34-7, and Army to Yale, 21-13.

Villanova's Sophs.
Twenty-one members of this year's Villanova squad are sophomores and 14 are juniors, with good freshmen material coming up.

BROOKE UNABLE TO FACE VANDY AT NASHVILLE

Jacket Star's Knee Still In Bad Shape and He Will Not Play.

By Herb Clark.

Like a beautiful face seen in the smoke, the possibility of having Jim Brooke in his starting line-up at Nashville Saturday has faded and flown from the gaze of Coach Bill Alexander the Man at the Flats.

The Man has hoped all week that "Parson Jim" would get back into shape. However, his knee, hurt in the Notre Dame game, has steadfastly refused to respond to treatment, and Jim is definitely on the retired list for the fray at Nashville. Which is no help at all.

SLIGHT EDGE.
With the Commodores, who furnish the opposition, rated as being but slightly weaker than the Jackets at the gentle art of pushing the pigskin across the stripes on the gridiron, being given an edge—also slight—in the defensive work, the lads from the Flats will need all the strength they can muster in the line. Since Jim Brooke has been no weak link in the forward wall at Tech.

Jim has, rather, been a power in his own right and a good man to have alongside any tackle.

Trainer Mike Chambers has worked hard over Brooke all week and had hoped until Thursday afternoon to have him on the field Saturday. It was no go, however.

LAW REPLACES BROOKE.
Hobby Law, bridge expert and "Jacking guard," will be in Brooke's position Saturday. Coming to Tech is a rather under-sized freshman, Hobby scrapped his way into the line of the coaching staff. Since time he has picked up more weight and has shown real ability at the guard post. Charging hard and tackling viciously, Hobby will do much to eliminate tears over the loss of Brooke.

The decision to give Brooke a rest and work Law was reached finally Thursday afternoon. The Commodores have had a still easier week of preparation than they went through last week for the Irish Express. What work has been done has been devoted to polishing the offense.

EASY WEEK.
The Man has decided anew that the way for the Jackets to win games this year is to score more touchdowns than the opposition. He will have this program in mind at Nashville.

And there he will be opposed by another coach, Uncle Dan McGugin, with the self-same idea. The Commodores have played a "punt and wait for the breaks" score when and where you can sort of a game this year. Tech will play them at their own game.

Tech will play them at their own game. According to the tangle-eyed star correspondent, Wayward Boye, the Jackets will win. The Jackets, however, are not that sure. They admit to meeting a strong foe, and vouchsafe the fact that they know they will have to fight to win. They will fight, and it is not beyond the limits of possibility that they should accomplish their purpose.

The 35-man Jacket squad will leave Atlanta late this afternoon for Nashville.

Gordon Will Play Locust Grove Today

Barnesville, Ga., November 7.—The Gordon Institute eleven is primed for its game Friday with Locust Grove Institute. Both teams are in fine condition. The game will be played in Barnesville, and all the fans are anxious to see the home boys play on their field. Gordon has lost only one game this season to a G. I. A. A. contest. That was last Friday to the Cochran Middle Georgia Institute. Gordon has won from Riverside by a score of 12 and 0, and from Columbus High, 24 and 6.

Jack Signs Pair.
Chicago, November 6.—Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., and Santiago Zorilla, of Panama, have been signed to meet in the 10-round main event of Jack Dempsey's boxing show at the Coliseum, November 15.

Wade Uncovers Flashy Halfback

"Shorty" Bellini, Connecticut Mite, Added to Varsity Squad—Wildcat Plays Stopped.

University, Ala., November 7.—Shorty Joseph Bellini, speedy halfback mite from New Haven, Conn., was promoted Thursday from the Crimson Tide reserve ranks to a position on the varsity by Head Coach Wallace Wade.

Promotion of the scrappy little New Englander came as a result of his flashy running against the varsity during the present stage of preparation for Kentucky plays. Bellini weighs only 145 pounds, and excels at broken field running.

Captain Billy Hicks was still out of scrimmage Thursday and can hardly be counted on to play Saturday when the Crimson Tide attempts to check the championship drive of the Kentucky Wildcats at Montgomery.

The Alabama varsity found little difficulty in breaking up Kentucky plays at Thursday's practice, although the Wildcats formations caught the Crimson completely off guard the first time they were run, at Wednesday's practice.

Covington and Kelly May Miss Tide Fray
Louisville, Ky., November 7.—(AP) Reports from Lexington were that Captain Will Ed Covington, Shipwreck Kelly, and other backfield stars of the University of Kentucky Wildcats might not get into Saturday's game with Alabama, but the squad was intact when it stopped over here for two hours tonight on the way to Montgomery.

The squad is scheduled to reach Montgomery at 10:45 a. m. tomorrow and Coach Gamage expects to give the players a workout in the afternoon in Crumpton Bowl.

Harvard and Michigan.
It all depends on how far Michigan has come back in the last two weeks. If Michigan hasn't improved a lot the Wolverine is in for a depressing afternoon. Harvard hasn't a great football team, but Harvard has a good one, with a word of man power to put on the field. As Bachman, Florida's coach, put it: "We might have beaten any one Harvard team, but we couldn't beat two." Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt, said about the same thing concerning the Minnesota contest. Harvard has a fine stock of reserve power. It is a better team than the Dartmouth score might indicate—a much better team. Michigan still has potential strength. There is a lot of good material wearing the Maize and Blue, and if it ever gets to clicking it can show much better football than Michigan has shown to date. The week's rest, with an open date last Saturday, should make a big difference.

Georgia and Yale.
Two years ago Georgia prevented Yale from making a clean sweep. It began to look now as if another Georgia team is to cast a shadow over another fine Blue season. Yale hasn't beaten Princeton and Harvard yet, and may not do so. But Eli at least has a good chance in each of these games, and if Yale should come through, the Georgia game would again be the only plot. Georgia apparently hit her pace too soon against Yale and North Carolina, as the easing down had to come. But Georgia still has a lot of football teams in the country have as many stars as Purdue can name in Yunevitch, Welsh, Harmon, Slight and Carroway.

Unbeaten S.I.A.A. State Teachers Teams To Battle Hold Field Day

Athens, Ga., November 7.—Rain interrupted a very exciting field day meet at the State Teachers' college Thursday. The teams were composed of picked players from the various classes and all competition was close.

The sophomores succeeded in winning a majority of the points. Their winning dodgeball team was composed of Misses Helen Young, Reynolds, (Ga.); Beat McDaniell, Albany, (Ga.); Joann Edson; Hattie Jean Hanson, Shiloh; Arlie Hornsby, Colquitt; Elizabeth Parker, Reynolds; Kathryn Casey, Cave Springs; Dixie Pelham, Albany; Eunice Bragg, Pinehurst; and Lillian Weatherly, Cedartown.

Circle ball also was won by the sophomores, with the following team: Misses Sara Hall, Albany; Oxford, Dawson; Sara White, Mayfield; Ruth Shellnut, Winder; Frances Hewitt, Weston; Hazel and Margaret, Watson, Fitzgerald; Pinehurst; and Lillian Weatherly, Cedartown.

The dash was won by Miss Frances Newman, sophomore, of Bainbridge. Other close contestants in the dash were Miss Jessie Overstreet, of Patterson, and Miss Marion Lyles, of Savannah.

The sophomores won volleyball honors after defeating the freshman and junior-senior teams. Both matches were close and furnished many thrills. The winning team was composed of Misses Wilma S. S. Lary; Maude Hopper, Clayton; Marie Oxford, Dawson; Louise Starr, Mansfield; Sara Hall, Albany; Hazel Watson, Fitzgerald; Sara White, Mayfield, and Catherine Bessant, Warwick.

The relays were very exciting and the teams were closely matched. The freshmen were victorious in the final relay after defeating the sophomore and junior-senior teams. The winners were Misses Nona Springs, Albany; Julia Sykes, Pitts; Wynell Murray, Lily, and Emma Richter, Savannah.

The over and under relay was won by members of the junior-senior classes, with the following team: Misses Margaret Thornton, Dewyrose; Marjorie Harris, Wrens; Frances Shelton, Warrenton; Victoria Cromartie, Vidalia; Frances Scarsell Chappell, S. C.; Eloise Foster, Spartan, Ga.; Carolyn Parham, Columbus, and Laura Forbes, Vienna.

During the captain ball games the preliminary was hotly contested and was won by the junior-senior classes by a close margin. The junior-seniors also defeated the sophomore in the final. The winners were Misses Sue Alsbrook, Woodland; Edna Wade, Quitman; Fratie Jim Breedlove, Monroe; Edna Anderson, Milledgeville; Frances Scoury, Chappell, S. C.; Laura Forbes, Vienna; Mary Ham, Montezuma; Louise Butler, Covington; Lillian Thomas, Sasser, and Jessie Overstreet, Patterson.

Exceptional skill was exhibited in tennis. The preliminary match was played between Miss Georgia Watson, of Covington, representing the freshman class, and Miss Ruth Shellnut, of Winder, for the sophomores. Miss Shellnut was the winner. The final match will be played at a later date.

The field day was under the direction of the physical directors, Miss Laura B. Strong and Miss Edith Guill.

Michigan Replies To Carnegie Report

Ann Arbor, Mich., November 7.—(AP)—A plea for a "sane attitude" by alumni and the public toward intercollegiate athletics is contained in the University of Michigan reply to the recent report of the Carnegie Foundation, in which American colleges were censured for subsidizing athletics.

The reply was made public today by Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university.

There is no justice in refusing to admit an athlete to the university just because he is an athlete, nor, once he has been admitted, in denying him aid in his studies and personal problems afforded other students, Dr. Ruthven said.

Rockne To Drill Irish for Trojans

South Bend, Ind., November 7.—(AP) Coach Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, admits there is little chance of his being able to walk around before the end of the football season—but that isn't going to keep him from directing the Ramblers' preparations for the Southern California game at Soldier field, Chicago, November 16.

Rockne, who has been in bed for the past two weeks, nursing his injured leg, insists that the business of getting ready for the Trojans, in his business, and he will be there.

Wade Uncovers Flashy Halfback

"Shorty" Bellini, Connecticut Mite, Added to Varsity Squad—Wildcat Plays Stopped.

University, Ala., November 7.—Shorty Joseph Bellini, speedy halfback mite from New Haven, Conn., was promoted Thursday from the Crimson Tide reserve ranks to a position on the varsity by Head Coach Wallace Wade.

Promotion of the scrappy little New Englander came as a result of his flashy running against the varsity during the present stage of preparation for Kentucky plays. Bellini weighs only 145 pounds, and excels at broken field running.

Captain Billy Hicks was still out of scrimmage Thursday and can hardly be counted on to play Saturday when the Crimson Tide attempts to check the championship drive of the Kentucky Wildcats at Montgomery.

The Alabama varsity found little difficulty in breaking up Kentucky plays at Thursday's practice, although the Wildcats formations caught the Crimson completely off guard the first time they were run, at Wednesday's practice.

Covington and Kelly May Miss Tide Fray
Louisville, Ky., November 7.—(AP) Reports from Lexington were that Captain Will Ed Covington, Shipwreck Kelly, and other backfield stars of the University of Kentucky Wildcats might not get into Saturday's game with Alabama, but the squad was intact when it stopped over here for two hours tonight on the way to Montgomery.

The squad is scheduled to reach Montgomery at 10:45 a. m. tomorrow and Coach Gamage expects to give the players a workout in the afternoon in Crumpton Bowl.

Harvard and Michigan.
It all depends on how far Michigan has come back in the last two weeks. If Michigan hasn't improved a lot the Wolverine is in for a depressing afternoon. Harvard hasn't a great football team, but Harvard has a good one, with a word of man power to put on the field. As Bachman, Florida's coach, put it: "We might have beaten any one Harvard team, but we couldn't beat two." Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt, said about the same thing concerning the Minnesota contest. Harvard has a fine stock of reserve power. It is a better team than the Dartmouth score might indicate—a much better team. Michigan still has potential strength. There is a lot of good material wearing the Maize and Blue, and if it ever gets to clicking it can show much better football than Michigan has shown to date. The week's rest, with an open date last Saturday, should make a big difference.

Georgia and Yale.
Two years ago Georgia prevented Yale from making a clean sweep. It began to look now as if another Georgia team is to cast a shadow over another fine Blue season. Yale hasn't beaten Princeton and Harvard yet, and may not do so. But Eli at least has a good chance in each of these games, and if Yale should come through, the Georgia game would again be the only plot. Georgia apparently hit her pace too soon against Yale and North Carolina, as the easing down had to come. But Georgia still has a lot of football teams in the country have as many stars as Purdue can name in Yunevitch, Welsh, Harmon, Slight and Carroway.

Unbeaten S.I.A.A. State Teachers Teams To Battle Hold Field Day

Athens, Ga., November 7.—Rain interrupted a very exciting field day meet at the State Teachers' college Thursday. The teams were composed of picked players from the various classes and all competition was close.

The sophomores succeeded in winning a majority of the points. Their winning dodgeball team was composed of Misses Helen Young, Reynolds, (Ga.); Beat McDaniell, Albany, (Ga.); Joann Edson; Hattie Jean Hanson, Shiloh; Arlie Hornsby, Colquitt; Elizabeth Parker, Reynolds; Kathryn Casey, Cave Springs; Dixie Pelham, Albany; Eunice Bragg, Pinehurst; and Lillian Weatherly, Cedartown.

Circle ball also was won by the sophomores, with the following team: Misses Sara Hall, Albany; Oxford, Dawson; Sara White, Mayfield; Ruth Shellnut, Winder; Frances Hewitt, Weston; Hazel and Margaret, Watson, Fitzgerald; Pinehurst; and Lillian Weatherly, Cedartown.

The dash was won by Miss Frances Newman, sophomore, of Bainbridge. Other close contestants in the dash were Miss Jessie Overstreet, of Patterson, and Miss Marion Lyles, of Savannah.

The sophomores won volleyball honors after defeating the freshman and junior-senior teams. Both matches were close and furnished many thrills. The winning team was composed of Misses Wilma S. S. Lary; Maude Hopper, Clayton; Marie Oxford, Dawson; Louise Starr, Mansfield; Sara Hall, Albany; Hazel Watson, Fitzgerald; Sara White, Mayfield, and Catherine Bessant, Warwick.

Gotham Fans Look for Georgia Victory Over Violet Saturday

FALL OF YALE REMEMBERED IN PREDICTION

N. Y. U.'s Team Is Underdog With Fans on Basis of Records.

By L. S. Cameron,
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, November 7.—Georgia university's football team, the first major southern team to visit New York in several seasons, arrived here tonight confident of a victory Saturday over New York university at Yankee Stadium.

Thirty-three men made up the Bull-dog squad. Coach Harry A. Mehre, Knute Rockne's former pupil, was in command. Fifty Georgia rooters, headed by Chancellor Charles M. Snelling and Dean S. V. Sanford, of the university, accompanied the squad.

TRAVELERS' ISLAND.
The Georgia players were taken to Travers Island, summer home of the New York Athletic Club, where they will remain until game time, save for brief signal practice at the stadium tomorrow.

Among the fans who will tax the capacity of the Yankee stadium there is a general expectation that Saturday's game will go to the southerners. Each team has a spotty record, but nobody here is able to forget that Georgia is the team which blew a bottle around the mighty midget Albie Booth and in so doing beat a powerful Yale varsity. Georgia also holds victories over North Carolina and Furman. The Bulldogs have lost to Florida, 6-18; to Tulane, 15-21, and to Oglethorpe, 7-14.

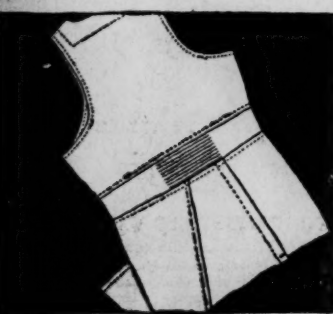

New York's Violets have little to show in comparison to such a record. They failed before a good Fordham team, 0-26. Last week they bowed to a supposedly weak Georgetown eleven, 0-14. N. Y. U. did beat West Virginia Wesleyan and Butler and won a practice event with Vermont.

SMART BACKS.
Mostly, the Georgia varsity eleven is made up of veterans. Eight of the team have had at least one year of varsity experience. Three are sophomores. The Georgia backfield play has been smart and fast this year. Armin Waugh, halfback, is a shifty back as any team in the country can boast. His fine play has been aided by "Tiny" Benny Rostier at fullback.

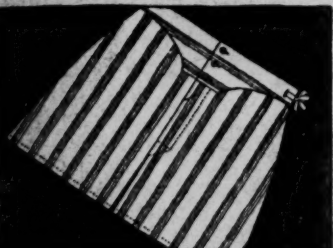

New York University has had its troubles all season and a new one cropped up since Saturday. Charlie Marshall, star end, broke an ankle in the Georgetown game. His place will be filled well by George Chambers, regular guard, but that substitution will weaken the center of the line. Ross Grant or George Murphy will play guard. Most of the Violets' backfield burden will be carried by Beryl Follet, fullback, and La Mark, halfback. O'Hara is expected to start at quarterback.

Tech's Record.
The record score made by Georgia Tech over Cumberland in 1917, and which was 222 to 0, has never been approached.

GREAT BACKS ARE ABUNDANT ON 1929 GRID

Loss of Marsters Will Prove If Dartmouth Can Win.

By Walter Trumbull.
(Copyright, 1929, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.)
New York, November 7.—With Marsters definitely out of the picture, Dartmouth is going to have ample opportunity to prove whether or not it is a one-man team. Alton Marsters would be a tremendous loss to any squad, but the Green has some other backs who would shine against any lesser opposition.

One great back who doesn't get all the credit due him is Lloyd Brazil, of Detroit. If Brazil were one of the big coast, Western conference or eastern eleven, you would be hearing a lot about him.

Detroit doesn't have many opponents of major caliber, but that isn't Brazil's fault. In four games, his punts have averaged over 40 yards and he has averaged almost eight yards every time he ran with the ball. That is good work against anybody.

Georgia is expected to show a couple of good backs in the game with New York University. Rothstein, at fullback, is a fine line-breaker, and Armin Waugh, the Atlanta boy, is light, but fast and shifty as a rabbit.

SOUTHERN BACKS.

Banker of Tulane, and McEver, of Tennessee, still are considered the best backs of the south, but Justus, of Clemson, and Catwren, of Florida, have been receiving a lot of favorable mention from the experts. Kelly, of Kentucky, and Holm, of Alabama, are also first-class ball carriers.

Such backs as Bennie Lom of California, Dowlers of Colgate, Sebo of Syracuse, Berghorn of Northwestern, Uans of Pittsburgh, Hinkle of Bucknell, McElreath of Baylor, Pharnum of Minnesota, King of Drake, Pomeroy of Utah, Bausch of Kansas, Hewitt of Columbia, Eagle Army, Booth of Yale, and Stevens of Cornell, are too well known to need advertising. There are All-American men in plenty in that lot.

The trouble is that the only manner in which backs can be graded is to take into account the opposition they face, and on this theory, you might also pick Notre Dame's whole backfield and not go far wrong. Notre Dame is certainly playing a tough schedule this season, and so far has come through nobly.

Aside from the many intercollegiate games of Saturday there should be other hard-fought contests. It would not be surprising to see Colgate defeat Columbia, in spite of the latter's splendid showing in recent games. Colgate has a strong eleven.

TROUBLE.

Dartmouth, without Marsters, may have a lot of trouble with Brown. Penn State believes that it can beat Columbia, although this appears doubtful. Georgetown plays Navy and this should be a close game. Fordham and Boston College will certainly be a struggle worth watching. Here are two undefeated teams and it looks as if Boston's record was in danger. Minnesota and Iowa, and Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt face each other, with Minnesota and Vanderbilt the favorites.

A study of the season's scores shows some amusing angles. Harvard scored 43 points in its last three games and only won one of them. In two games, Lafayette scored 6 points, as against 12, and lost both. Army scored 33 points in two games, tied one and lost the other. Ohio State has scored only 25 points as against its opponents' 24, but has lost only one game out of five. About the best defensive team seems to be St. Mary's of California.

FIRST INVASION.

The Harvard-Michigan game will not only be an intercollegiate game and the resumption of an old rivalry, but will mark the Crimson's invasion of the midwest. Alumni have been urging Harvard, with its middle-western coaches and its many graduates in that section, to play some conference eleven on its home grounds. Since the game first was scheduled, it has created widespread interest.

Michigan, which never has beaten Harvard, will be more than anxious to do well in this engagement. If the Wolverines can win, it will soothe the sting of defeats by Purdue, Ohio State and Illinois, and prove a silver lining for a cloudy season.

Local arguments, Claude Tolbert and his Tech High team, 25 strong, are speeding to Charlotte, N. C. The Smithies will leave Atlanta at 7:30 o'clock and are expected to arrive in Charlotte at 3:30 o'clock, in time for an afternoon workout.

While the local teams are settling

This announcement was made Thursday night by Dr. Thorndell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe.

Among the schools included in the invitation are: Boys' High, Tech High, Girls' High, Commercial High, Fulton High, Georgia Military Academy, University School for Boys, Marist, Peacock School, North Avenue Presbyterian, Washington Seminary and Woodberry Hall.

Seniors are asked to present a statement signed by the principal of the school.

CONFIDENCE IS DISPELLED

tradition of victory to fall back on. Clemson gets overconfident in at least one major game each year.

RESENTFUL.

Gamage is resentful and very much so. He was made to appear ridiculous in the public prints because some half-baked college correspondent had quoted him in his (the correspondent's) own enthusiasm.

The college correspondents are one evil which the Carnegie Foundation overlooked in their investigation of the "city" surrounding the college athletic fields.

Some of the boys supply interesting reading when they begin writing for the newspapers. About the day the Carnegie report came out there was a young man at Knoxville who sat down and wrote a piece about how the loyal friends of the state university had "kidnaped" two players from the campus of an old rival. What the loyal alumni must have said was no doubt amusing and the state university must have blushed furiously when they read of it.

EMBARRASSMENT.

The boys blurt right out now and then with some embarrassing bit of news which might be better left unsaid. Now and then they grow enthusiastic about a winning football team and quote the coaches, making them appear very foolish before the reading public.

There was once a football team which was defeated by its own writers. When they found out their writers had made asses of them they went back and all but strung up the budding journalists. The twerpwriter is a two-edged affair and often cuts both ways.

At any rate Gamage has cleared the situation. He is deep in the maligrahe, which means that his team will play a much better game than they would if he were sitting on top of the gridiron world waiting to breeze through the Tide, the Cadets and the Vols.

Visiting Trio.

The Big Three teams travel same as others. Yale went to Georgia this year and Harvard signed to visit Michigan. Next year Princeton will play in Chicago again.

Mandell To Meet Gonzales at Miami

Lightweight Champion Accepts Terms For Bout—Carter Arranges Fight.

Miami, Fla., November 7.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, has accepted terms for a bout here December 6, it was announced tonight by G. K. Carter, local Miami Beach matchmaker, who is breaking into the boxing game here under the auspices of the American Legion. Jim Downing, former Tampa matchmaker, is arranging Carter's cards.

Mandell will meet Luis Gonzales, crack Cuban welterweight, or Harry Kid Brown, well-known eastern scrapper.

Gonzales and Brown meet here next Friday in the semi-final of Carter's first show, the winner to get the Mandell shot. The opening show features Dave Shadr, well known California middleweight, and Dick Evans, Ohio fighter, who has been winning from good boys this summer.

Tallman Defeated In Final Round, 2-1

Pinehurst, N. C., November 7.—(United News.)—Edmond A. Guggenheim, New York, defeated David N. Tallman, Minneapolis, melatist, 2 and 1 today, and moved to the final round of the 25th annual autumn tournament.

Guggenheim pairs with E. L. Scofield, New York, who defeated R. J. Reed, Danvers, Mass., 4 and 2.

Georgia Poloists Meet Guardsmen

Athens, Ga., November 7.—The University of Georgia polo team will make its initial appearance of the season Saturday afternoon when it meets the strong Governor's Horse Guard quartet on Sanford field. The game will start at 3 p. m.

The Red and Black horsemen will be without the services of their coach, Captain J. L. Lambert, who was injured in practice here yesterday, when they go into their first game.

WILDCATS BASK IN SPOTLIGHT

Kentucky Gains Recognition; Faces Test Saturday In Alabama.

Lexington, Ky., November 7.—For the first time in history a Kentucky team is basking in the warm glow of the national spotlight. The Wildcats have won all of their five football games this season and they are among the nation's leading scorers, with 195 points to the opponents' 12.

This brilliant Kentucky team after its crushing victory over Clemson still puzzles critics as to its true worth. Josh Cody brought the most promising looking squad of young giants to Stoll field that experts have seen in five years. Clemson had won six games and was leading the nation. Descending like a thunderbolt Shipwreck Kelly, knocked the Tigers to their haunches with a touchdown on the first play of the game. That is the only plausible excuse that can be given for the utter rout of the Clemson team to the astonishment of the people present.

DUPLICATE RUN.
Everyone knows now how the brilliant Kelly duplicated that same run a few minutes later, how Carey Spicer scored another touchdown, and the decisive way in which Coach Gamage jerked his varsity from the game to watch his second and third teams score four more touchdowns.

The Wildcats leave Kentucky soil for the first time this season to play Wade's Crimson Tide in Montgomery Saturday. The strength of Alabama has been tested in games with Tennessee and Vanderbilt. Whether Kentucky has a "miracle" team or a team that has been overrated and will wilt against real opposition will be decided Saturday.

A crippled team will face Alabama, but it was a crippled team that defeated Clemson. Jack and Tom Phillips, Will Ed Covington and Ken Andrews were disabled then and they are disabled now. Kentucky was conceded only an even chance of defeating Clemson with four regulars out of the line-up. Three of these boys had started every other game previously and were thought to be important cogs in the Wildcat machine. What happened? The Wildcats discarded all four of them and ran wild just the same.

REPLACEMENTS.
Lewis Toth was sent in at full-back in place of the brothers Phillips. Richards replaced Covington and Ken Andrews replaced Andrews at end. These same changes will be made for the Crimson Tide unless Coach Gamage changes his mind.

Monday the Wildcats were given a brief signal drill and sent to the showers. And on Tuesday Toth and Baughman replaced Andrews at end. These same changes will be made for the Crimson Tide unless Coach Gamage changes his mind.

There are four Wildcats who deserve personal mention who are likely to make All-Southern. Shipwreck Kelly, a great ball-carrier; Floppy Forquer and Pete Drury, the two best linemen in Wildcat history, and Carey Spicer, a great field general and defensive halfback.

Godfrey-Byrne Fight Declared 'No Contest'

Boston, November 7.—(United News.)—A slow, unexciting bout between George Godfrey, negro heavyweight, of Leipsville, Pa., and Jimmy Byrne, of Boston, was abruptly ended in the seventh of its scheduled ten rounds tonight by Referee Johnny Bransil, who declared it no contest, and announced the fighters would not be paid.

Persistent stalling by both men, despite repeated pleas from the referee and the crowd for action, was the cause of Bransil's decision.

G. M. C. MEETS RUSSELL HIGH

will journey to Gainesville to play Gainesville High.

OFF-DAY.

Boys' High and University School for the two remaining teams in the city prep league, will have an off day but will be hard at work in preparation for a heavy schedule next week.

Coach Doyle's Purple Hurricane will play Lanier High in an all-important game of the G. I. A. A. Monday afternoon in Macon and University school will play the strong Madison Aggie eleven in Madison Monday afternoon. Both games will be a part of the respective cities' Armistice Day celebrations.

University school will follow with another hard game Friday against Lanier High in Macon and Boys' High will play Savannah High, in Savannah, Saturday afternoon, November 16.

Both Savannah High and Madison are ranking teams in the G. I. A. A. since the defeat of Tech High by Savannah High. Lanier played Savannah to a 6-to-6 tie and also is among the state leaders.

G. M. A. IMPROVES.

Coach Padgett's G. M. A. Cadets, after a slow start, have rapidly developed into a strong contender, local and state honors. G. M. A. lost to Tech High and Madison and then started the uphill grade. Boys' High was held to a scoreless tie against overwhelming odds and Savannah High was taken into camp by a 26-to-6 score. Last week the Cadets swamped Carrollton Aggies by a 38-to-6 count and are looking forward to three more victories on its schedule.

Russell High, Columbus and Lanier are the opponents left. Russell High was beaten by Marist in its first game and by Rome High last week, but Fulton, Douglasville, Commercial and Marietta were taken over the bumps for four consecutive victories. Coach Bowen's East Point lads have played good football in all of their games and another good game is expected this afternoon.

SPECTACULAR GAME.

Marist college and Griffin High will play a spectacular game. Every University school is well coached by the veteran Joe Bean, now serving his 26th year as football coach at Marist. The Cadets are much lighter than usual, but what they lack in weight is made up in speed and fight. The Cadets never know when to stop and when they are beaten. Marist has an unusual assortment of interest in and difficult plays, which are interesting to watch in action.

VETERANS' HOSPITAL HEAD IS INDICTED

Mishandling Funds Charged
As Result of Legion Complaints.

Little Rock, Ark., November 7.—(AP)—A federal investigation brought about by complaints of American Legion members today has resulted in an indictment of Dr. E. P. Bledsoe, former superintendent of the United States Veterans' hospital at Fort Roots, near here, but now superintendent of the Springfield State hospital at Sykesville, Md., on charges of mishandling funds and records at the Fort Roots hospital.

District Attorney Charles F. Cole said today bond of $5,000 signed by several friends of Dr. Bledsoe to save him embarrassment of arrest in Maryland was returnable here January 1. He said he did not know when the case would be tried.

Bledsoe's indictment returned by a grand jury October 22 was announced yesterday.

The indictment was on three counts. The first charged him with embezzling $15,205; the second with failing to account for that sum and the third with obtaining cancelled checks from banks to prevent government agents checking them.

C. C. Kavanaugh, president of a local bank, who was the first to sign Dr. Bledsoe's bond, said he believed "if any irregularity exists in Dr. Bledsoe's accounts it is a technical one and not a moral error."

Dr. Bledsoe was superintendent of the Fort Roots hospital from 1922 to 1928.

BODIES OF VICTIMS OF CROSSING CRASH ARE BROUGHT HERE

The bodies of J. M. Shaw, 51, and Alvin Johnson, 17, both of Atlanta, are expected to arrive here early Friday morning from Macon, near which place they were killed about 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning when a motor truck in which they were riding was struck by a southbound Central of Georgia passenger train.

The two men were killed at Lorane, 12 miles from Macon, when their truck bearing produce, attempted to turn into the Atlanta-Macon highway from the old road running between Macon and Forsyth. Johnson was driving. He lived at 200 Mayson avenue and had been in Atlanta but a short time, coming here from Covington, where his father, S. T. Johnston, still resides. He is survived by two sisters in Atlanta, Mrs. Glen Jarrett and Mrs. George English, and one brother, D. E. Johnson.

Shaw lived at 1265 Fair street and is survived by his widow and three sons, Theron Shaw, of Detroit, and James and Marshall Shaw, of Atlanta, and one daughter, Mrs. Marion Odell Crowe. He was a meat cutter on a truck from south Georgia when the accident occurred.

After the crash both men were rushed to Macon aboard the train, but were dead when members of the train crew extricated them from the wreck of the truck. Railroad officials here could give no additional details of the accident.

Funeral arrangements, in charge of Sam Greenberg & Co., will be announced later.

PAINTER IS KILLED IN EIGHT-STORY FALL

Edward W. King Plunges to Death While Working On Hotel.

Edward W. King, of 342 Pryor street, S. W., noted steeple jack and "human fly," met death Thursday morning at the hands of the fate which he had so often mocked, when he crashed to the pavement near the side entrance of the Cecil hotel from a painter's scaffold 84 feet above the street.

A rope knot holding the scaffold upon which King was working, slipped and King, the only occupant of the scaffold, was hurled to the pavement eight stories below. J. W. Addison, employed by the Campbell Coal Company, who was working on the scaffold at the time of the fatal accident, was struck by a foot of the falling man, and, though unhurt, fainted from the shock.

King was dead when the Ed Bond & Condon company ambulance reached the Cady hospital.

King happened to be alone on the scaffold at the time of his death as his usual helper, Frank Hanes, was at his home due to blistered hands. The only worker to witness the death of King was his partner, Bob Thompson, who was holding the end of a rope to the scaffold while standing in the street below.

Following his dangerous calling from the age of eight years, King, who was 28, had survived a number of dangerous falls in the past. He had established an enviable reputation as a "human fly" while giving a number of exhibitions under the auspices of the American Legion.

His first fall was a distance of 80 feet from the steel work of a big water tank at Moultrie. He received three broken ribs in this accident but was again at his work a short time later. On another occasion he fell 30 feet from a chimney at Edgewood.

Notified of his death, King's widow and two children, Charles and James, arrived from Columbus, his former home, early Thursday night. His brother, Albert Etheridge, of Forsyth, Ga., came also upon receiving word of his death. However, the father, J. W. Etheridge, of Macon, was unable to make the trip.

The steeple jack took the name of Eddie King, early in life. His body was taken to the Ed Bond and Condon company and will remain until 8:35 o'clock this morning, when it will be removed to Fairfax, Ala. The last rites will be held there sometime this afternoon.

DAWES SAILS TODAY TO RESUME DUTIES

Washington, November 7.—(AP)—Ambassador Dawes concluded tonight his conference with President Hoover and officials of the government regarding the forthcoming naval conference in London, preparatory to sailing tomorrow night on the White Star liner Homeric for England.

The ambassador and Mrs. Dawes and their daughter, Mrs. Melvin Ericson, have been guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House for the three days since they arrived from Chicago. There Mr. Dawes had conferred with officials regarding the planned Chicago World's Fair.

Accompanied by his brother, Rufus C. Dawes, head of the committee working out plans for the fair, the ambassador attended a brief ceremony at the White House today when President Hoover issued his proclamation inviting all nations of the world to participate in the celebration.

The ambassador also concluded his conferences today with Secretary Stimson, Under Secretary of State Cotten and state and navy department officials in time to prepare for his departure late tonight for New York, where he will board the vessel which will take him back to London. During the few free moments he had today, the ambassador greeted many friends who called upon him at the office of General John J. Pershing in the war department, where Mr. Dawes had established temporary quarters.

The ambassador discussed various phases of the forthcoming conference and particularly questions regarding the arrival in London in January of the American delegation, which Secretary Stimson will head.

The Ritz hotel has been chosen as the headquarters of the American delegation which is expected to occupy two floors.

Those attached to the commission who are unable to be placed in the Ritz will be housed in the Mayfair hotel directly across the street from the Ritz. Some seventy rooms will be required by the American contingent to the conference.

Under the plan, as outlined by Mr. MacDougall, the bridge will be ready for travel by December 20. The last concrete will be poured and the last steel beams will be in place by that time, he stated.

Frank L. Butler, vice president and operating manager of the Georgia Power Company, stated his company is co-operating in expediting laying of rails over the structure and that the contractor will experience no delay because of that company's part in the work.

Trolley tracks across the Nelson street bridge which is now congested because of the load it is carrying, will be abandoned just as soon as the Mitchell street project is completed.

Pioneer Atlantan Recalls Capture of John Brown

P. H. SMOAK DESCRIBES HISTORIC EVENT

An eye-witness account of the capture of John Brown by Lieutenant Colonel Robert E. Lee was given by P. H. Smoak, who was at the time a sub-captain in the Berkeley Guards, a company of Martinsville soldiers, which stood at attention 200 feet from the scene of action. Mr. Smoak recently celebrated the ninetieth anniversary of his birthday.

The Atlantan saw Lee and his hundred-odd United States soldiers fall off a train in perfect military formation, and said of the great soldier's appearance: "He looked like all Lee has ever been pictured as being, he looked like a perfect gentleman."

On John Brown's appearance, Mr. Smoak commented: "Never in my life have I seen a more rugged-looking individual. He was very simply dressed, and this was much in accordance with his character. I have always considered him a fanatic, but a brave and gallant man, one who was true to his convictions."

The dramatic breaking of Brown's barricade was described by Mr. Smoak. "Making battering rams of ladders from the near-by engine house, dividing his men into two parties, and having in his possession a cancelled check

METHODISTS ELECT GENERAL DELEGATES

South Georgia Conference
Ballots for Clerical Delegation.

Macon, Ga., November 7.—(AP)—Final tabulation of returns on the ballots for clerical delegates to the general conference and reports from superannuate pastors constituted the principal business of the second day's session of the south Georgia Methodist conference.

On the third clerical ballot announced today J. M. Outler and J. A. Thomas were elected to complete the delegation, which also includes T. D. Ellis, Walter Anthony, C. R. Jenkins, W. F. Quillian, J. P. Dell and J. C. G. Brooks, elected yesterday. Clerical alternates named are J. A. Smith, Edmund P. Cook, A. W. Reese and W. F. Smith, while the list of lay alternates was completed with election of E. J. Dudley, Columbus, Colonel O. A. Park, Macon; W. P. Hornady, Ellaville, and B. F. Neal, Montezuma.

Ten pastors retired from active service today and took the superannuate relation, and 30 others already on the superannuate roll presented reports. The ten preachers retiring today were M. B. Boykin, T. M. M. Christian, Perry; J. C. Griner, Scott; J. T. Budd, Macon; H. L. Pearson, Odum; Bascom Anthony, Thomassville; Aaron Kelley, Lake Park; W. E. Tison, Tifton; R. M. Wesley, Pearson, and F. L. Stokes, West Green.

Moral Victory.
Bishop Beauchamp paid eloquent tribute to Dr. Anthony and his work in south Georgia for the past 48 years. In moving his own superannuation Dr. Anthony said that his day had seen more moral progress than any since the crucifixion. He termed the outlawry of slavery, war and whisky as the "three greatest moral victories of the ages."

The commission appointed to receive memorials to the general conference read two memorials today, referring to episcopal recedences and to an effort to harmonize the various conferences so they will conform more nearly to the needs of the present day.

Personnel of the official staff announced by the Sunday school board for the coming year included Rev. G. E. Clary, conference superintendent; Miss Lucy Quinn Eubanks, assistant superintendent; Rev. D. G. Mann, extension secretary; Mrs. Harry Strozzer, elementary worker, and Miss Ethylene Samplery, adolescent worker.

The conference was entertained at a barbecue lunch at the south Georgia Conference Orphan's Home, and later inspected the home. Among speakers today was W. D. Anderson, of Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, who told of the need for help from the churches in solving industrial problems.

RECRUITING PUSHED
Quota of State Increased By Navy Department.

Under recent orders of the navy department recruiting activities will be pushed throughout the country, it is announced by Lieutenant S. A. Jones, of the Atlanta recruiting station.

The department pointed out that the completion of the spring of Uncle Sam's newest light cruisers will necessitate a substantial increase in the enlisted personnel.

Georgia's quota has been increased from forty to fifty for the months of November and December, Lieutenant Jones said.

The third annual college day program of the South Georgia conference, colored, will be held Sunday at the church, it was announced Thursday. All college students and their friends are invited.

Doug Davis Smashes Record In Flight From New York

Doug Davis and his "Mystery Ship" photographed at his Candler field hangar just after he arrived from New York in his record-breaking flight.

BY N. S. NOBLE.
Emerging from the storm clouds hovering over Candler field and soaring across the airport faster than any airplane ever did before, Doug Davis flew his Travel Air "Mystery Ship" into Atlanta's municipal field at 11:45 o'clock Thursday morning in a blinding rain.

The arrival was auspicious and thrilling because of the rain and haze and brought to a Candler field pilot still more records for the commercial fliers of the country to try to best. Davis averaged 174.42 miles an hour from New York to Atlanta, the fastest time ever made between the two cities and the fastest time ever made on a cross-country hop by a commercial pilot in a commercial plane.

Every pilot and mechanic on Candler field was waiting when the time came for Davis' arrival. Doubtless they were freely expressing that he could break through the storm clouds and rain which had settled down on this section and through which he had to fly to reach the airport.

Then a roar from out of the rain and across the airport from north to south, a red and black streak flashed on its way. A shout went up from the ground as it appeared, only to almost disappear in the south. Then back on the east and a complete circle of the airport, down to a perfect "stalled" landing to decrease the 90 miles an hour at which the little low-winged monoplane lands—and Doug was taxiing up to the open doors of his hangar with the fastest commercial airplane in the world.

Can Claim Many Records.
As for records, Davis can claim the following:
New York to Atlanta, new speed mark.
Cross-country hop, fastest time ever made.
New York to Richmond, new speed mark.
Richmond to Spartanburg, new speed mark.
Spartanburg to Atlanta, new speed mark.

The "Mystery Ship," which Davis flew from New York to Atlanta, was a Travel Air model 4000, a four-engine biplane with a wingspan of 100 feet and a length of 40 feet.

After several days of splendid weather, which gave the airport an opportunity to dry out after last week's rains, a downpour, accompanied by an almost total lack of ceiling, descended on Candler field Thursday, removing the possibility of commercial operations and wrecking afternoon and night air mail schedules. More rain is predicted for today, and everybody is hoping that the elements will make this a sort of final fling, for a few days at least, that the Atlanta air races may be held under favorable meteorological conditions.

Should the weather be good—and the prospect is very much in doubt at this writing—the show will be gathered at Candler field Sunday the largest and most representative collection of aircraft ever assembled in this section of the country. Among the interesting exhibits, in addition to the famous Mystery Ship, in which Doug Davis will cavort on both days of the meet, will be the new Stearman cabin biplane—a combination mail and passenger ship—which Interstate Airlines, Inc., is soon to put into service on its Atlanta-Chicago route. One of the stock models will be flown here by Earl Ward, Interstate operations manager. These are only two of a wide assortment of planes which are scheduled to be on hand for the meet, which Manager William B. Hartsfield believes will eclipse anything ever held in this immediate neck of the woods.

Georgia should feel quite elated and, at the same time, spurred on to greater interest in a very necessary activity by an article by Editor Edward P. Warner in this week's issue of Aviation, in which the fact is brought out that no-marking has been sadly neglected the country over, but that most of the marked towns observed by Ford Ford pilots were in New England and Georgia. Even at that our record is unimpaired, to say the least, inasmuch as the tour fliers reported that they had seen less than a dozen roof signs throughout their long journey. Though the postoffice department, the Guggenheim fund, the Exchange clubs and the American League have repeatedly stressed the importance of the work, municipalities apparently have been extremely slow in providing this highly important aid to those doing cross-country flying.

A Fairchild K-44, powered with a Wright J-6, 165-horsepower engine, the official advance press plane for the recent national air tour and one-third of the Fairchild "White Fleet" that event, will visit Atlanta within a few days. At the controls will be D. Morgan Hackman, who is making a demonstration flight through the south. At the time the Ford tour came through Atlanta, Hackman, in one of the Fairchild entries, was in fourth place, a position he maintained for several days, completely washing out his plane, but escaping injury himself, during the Wichita-Springfield hop. Hackman achieved national renown by winning first place in the famous "Cleveland to Toronto Derby" following the Cleveland air races in September.

POLICE PREVENT BIG RECEPTION FOR N. C. STRIKER

New York, November 7.—(AP)—Police tonight frustrated plans of 1,000 workers for a rousing reception in Pennsylvania Station to Fred Beal, one of the men convicted recently of the slaying of Police Chief Adlerholt, of Gastonia, N. C., during a police raid on a tent colony of strikers.

The crowd had planned to carry Beal triumphantly through the station on his arrival here to assist in raising funds for the aid of his co-defendants. When he arrived, however, police held the crowd in check, and ushered Beal quickly from his train to a taxicab, which whisked him away.

Members of the reception committee attempted unsuccessfully to break through the police lines and policemen snatched several banners bearing communist exhortations. Finally the workers marched to the street singing, "Solidarity Forever."

Neuralgic Pains Stopped By Capudine

Capudine quickly relieves the neuralgic headaches, rheumatic pains, and the aches accompanying colds that make life so miserable for so many people, especially during the winter months. It soothes the tense nerves, quickly stops the pain and affords peaceful relaxation. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore is most desirable.

The next time you suffer from such pains take two teaspoonsful of Capudine in a little water and note how quickly the pain fades away. Capudine has been sold by druggists for more than 30 years. 30c and 60c bottles. (adv.)

MISS SUSETTE HEATH INTRODUCED AT BRILLIANT BALL

Driving Club Provides Setting for Occasion

Amid a bower of pink blossoms Miss Susette Barrington Heath was presented formally to several hundred members of Atlanta society last evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pratt Heath, at a brilliant ball at the Piedmont Driving Club. Long-stemmed pink roses and giant pink chrysanthemums were used in profusions in transforming the handsome ballroom into a veritable garden of pink blossoms combined with hot-house foliage plants and smilax. Clusters of pink chrysanthemums adorned the massive white columns at artistic intervals entwined with smilax. Bouquets of the chrysanthemums were arranged over the side wall lights with smilax garlanded between the lights. Large baskets of long-stemmed pink roses stood guard on either side of the ballroom entrance and baskets of these lovely flowers graced the tables in the adjoining salons where punch was served throughout the evening from bowls embedded in pink chrysanthemums and pink roses. These lovely flowers combined with palms and ferns, banded the orchestra loft where music was rendered during the evening. Pink rose shades veiled the crystal chandeliers from which fell showers of pink rosebuds and valley lilies. Across the far end of the ballroom a row of tiny pink rose lights extended, broken in the center by a huge bouquet of giant pink chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath and their lovely debutante daughter received the guests before the large fireplace at the far end of the ballroom, which was banked with palms and foliage plants interspersed by floor baskets of pink, shaggy chrysanthemums and pink roses. Adding to the beauty of the decorations were lovely flowers sent by the debutante's host of admirers, these being placed near where the honor guest stood. Assisting in receiving were Miss Elizabeth Harris, of St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Louise Fischer, of Newnan, Ga.; and Miss Dorothy Smith, of Camden, S. C., who are visiting Miss Heath, the latter being the fiancée of William P. Heath, the debutante's brother, who also assisted in receiving.

Beautiful Costumes.
Mrs. Heath wore a handsome gown of shell-pink chiffon velvet with a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Miss Heath's beautiful gown was fashioned of white satin featuring the close-fitting bodice and ankle-length skirt, and she carried a bouquet of pastel-shaded flowers fringed with valley lilies. Miss Harris was gowned in jade green satin and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Miss Fischer's beautiful costume was fashioned of white moire with which she wore an orchid shoulder bouquet. Miss Smith was costumed in egg-shell satin and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

The popular young debutante introduced last evening is an admired member of Atlanta's 1929-30 Debutantes' Club. She was graduated from Hollins college in Virginia last June, leaving immediately thereafter with her mother, Mrs. Heath, for an extended European tour. She is exceedingly popular among a wide circle of friends and is a descendant of representative and aristocratic Georgia families. Her beauty is of the blonde type, and Miss Heath possesses a gracious and engaging personality. Throughout the winter she will be honored at innumerable parties by her many friends and will be a popular figure attending the brilliant social functions given at the clubs.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER RABBIT DISAPPEARS.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Pray never think you've caught a rabbit. Until you actually can grab it. —Reddy Fox.

It looked bad for Peter Rabbit. Yes, sir, it looked bad for Peter Rabbit. There he was with the use of only three legs in a little bramble tangle in the Old Pasture, with Reddy Fox crawling into it from one side to drive him out, and Mrs. Reddy hiding where she could catch him when he did come out. Things couldn't have looked much worse for Peter Rabbit. You see, Peter knew nothing about Mrs. Reddy. Never in his life had Reddy Fox felt more sure of a thing than he did that within a very few minutes he and Mrs. Reddy would have a Rabbit dinner. The brambles tore his coat and scratched his face. He paid no heed. He kept right on pushing his head through the brambles. When he opened them, Peter Rabbit had disappeared. Reddy blinked several times to make sure. But all the blinking in the world wouldn't make a Rabbit where no Rabbit was. Peter simply wasn't there.

Reddy looked eagerly to see if Mrs. Reddy had caught Peter. There was no sign of Mrs. Reddy. He couldn't see Mrs. Reddy and he couldn't see Peter. But one thing was certain and that was that Peter was not where he had been. Reddy looked around in the bramble tangle as best he could. He could see nearly all of it. There was the stump of a small tree with a lot of dead leaves around it, but he could see both sides of that little stump. Peter must have left the bramble tangle. Reddy began to hastily back out. He whined and whimpered several times as the brambles pricked him. As soon as he was once out, he ran swiftly around to the other side.

"Well," said Mrs. Reddy, joining him from her hiding place, "where is Peter Rabbit?"

"That's for you to tell," snapped Reddy. "At least, if he did get out, that you let him get out without catching him."

"He hasn't come out," retorted Mrs. Reddy. "Do you mean as to tell me, then, he got out on your side and not on mine?"

"He certainly didn't get out on my side," declared Reddy. "He must have jumped out where you were not looking. I should have thought you would have kept your eyes open when you knew that he was likely to jump out any minute."

"I did keep my eyes open!" snapped Mrs. Reddy. "I tell you he didn't come out on my side! From where I was hiding I couldn't see into the bramble tangle where he was, but I could see every bit of this side of the tangle, and Peter Rabbit didn't come out. He must have dodged around you and got out on your side."

"Nothing of the sort!" replied Reddy, beginning to lose his temper. "I gave you the easiest part of the task and I think that the least you could have done was to have been

Mrs. Combs Gives Silver Trophies To Children Riders

Those Atlantans remembering the glittering and brilliant horse shows staged in the auditorium when the building was first erected will vividly recall the string of thoroughbred horses exhibited by Mrs. Louis Long Combs, of Kansas City, Mo. She has kept up her interest in horsemanship, is a skilful rider, as well as a famous authority on and owner of a string of celebrated horses. Mrs. Combs is offering three silver trophies for a unique children's class at the American Royal horse show, to be staged November 10 to 23, in St. Louis. It is her desire to have children who have not won a blue ribbon in any recognized show to enter in this class.

Mrs. Combs believes that interest can be instilled in very young children. So often it is the case that a boy or girl who owns a show pony takes all the ring honors, and the others have a mental hazard to overcome in competing with former winners. The unusual class which she is promoting and in which she seeks to encourage children who have felt the sting of ring failures, is defined as a junior saddle class for girls and boys, and is as follows:

"Competition limited to ponies under 14-15 hands high. Boys and girls under 14 years and under 14 years of age, who have never won a blue ribbon in any state fair, or recognized horse show, and who live in Jackson, Clay, Platte, Wyandotte or Johnson counties."

In an interesting interview given to The Kansas City Star, Mrs. Combs says:

"I remember the very first time I ever showed in any ring. That was at Fairmount Park. I was barely 15 years old, and although I had ridden all my life, I had never been in a ring. Father owned a very fine five-gaited saddle horse, which he had brought up from Kentucky. Red Buck was his name. He was bought for $800, which was a huge sum for those days. I had been used to riding a pony, but persuaded the family to let me show the big horse. He stood most beautifully, but he was a bit of a trouble maker. I had a good deal of trouble with him. There was a good deal of discussion about arranging for the care of the animal at the show. It looked as if we would have to hire an extra man. But I insisted on the coachman going to the show and begged to take care of the carriage horses that week myself. It was a rush to get the horse ready, but I answered in a loud cry, 'I'll try to do it.' The audience couldn't help hearing and they broke out in many laughs. I was eager to do everything right and my naive answer made the judges chuckle. This little incident has become a joke of the horse show ring. In later years many judges teased me by asking me if I'd please try to make my horse canter in a circle."

"When the judge stepped forward and, tipping his hat, asked me to canter my horse in a circle, I answered in a loud cry, 'I'll try to do it.' The audience couldn't help hearing and they broke out in many laughs. I was eager to do everything right and my naive answer made the judges chuckle. Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups. Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

HISTORIC FORTIFICATIONS TO OWN SELVES IN FUTURE

Mrs. C. K. Ayer Planning To Preserve Old Trenches

MRS. C. K. AYER, prominent Atlanta clubwoman, is planning a solemn and beautiful ceremony to be held at an early date at Ayershire, her estate on Power's Ferry road. The occasion will be the dedication, to future generations, of a line of breastworks that run through the place, and the formal deeding of the property to itself, in perpetuity. This, she feels, will be the only way to prevent their destruction by subsequent owners, which she wishes to provide against, if possible.

The idea of property owning itself is not, wholly, a new one in Georgia. There is an historic oak in Athens, celebrated for the distinguished men who, from time to time, have enjoyed its shade and used it as a popular meeting place. Years ago this grand old tree was deeded to itself. It is still flourishing, still enjoying its independence, still giving shelter to many.

The ceremony at Ayershire will be conducted by the Atlanta Chapter, U. D. C., which for many years has been interested in marking historic spots around Atlanta. The breastworks run parallel to the Chattahoochee river. They were thrown up by Confederates defending Atlanta from the approach of Sherman's army, entrenched on the other side.

THE whole of Atlanta is surrounded by breastworks. Time, storms, the passing of the children of men, even modern subdivisions, have, as yet, failed to obliterate them. The battle of Peachtree creek (which extends far up Nance's creek), fought along the area now occupied by the Peachtree Battle avenue homes, the Wesley drive region, and other surrounding localities, is famous in history. It has also been celebrated in fiction—in one of Sheila Kaye-Smith's novels, "Challenge to Sirius," for instance, though how this popular English novelist procured her not wholly inaccurate descriptions of localities, it is difficult even to surmise.

THE breastworks thrown up along Peachtree creek are still plainly to be seen. A line of them runs through the newly planned Peachtree Memorial park. Henderson Hallman, always entirely altruistic in his public activities, is hoping to preserve them. Many of the Pace's Ferry road estates occupy similarly historic ground. Lines of breastworks stretch on to the northeast, through the Oglethorpe and Ashford properties, and then directly north, following Nance's creek, through The Cedars, the Chaney Smith estate beyond Chamblee.

William J. Davis' superb riverside principality, Pace's Ferry hills, includes Signal mountain, occupied by the federalists during the month of August, 1864. This mountain rises to austere heights immediately back of the somewhat lower hills on which Mr. Davis has built his residence. It was used for observation and for signaling the troops—hence its name.

The federal battery was located on one of the lower hills, a thousand feet beyond the Davis residence, and on a direct line with it. From its high point of vantage it overlooks the river and the long-ago site of Pace's ferry—an important point, to be strictly guarded to prevent the crossing of the Confederate troops.

The old batteries have been cleared out—re-established as it were. The cultivating of the surrounding land has upturned hundreds of cannon balls. These are piled in pyramids, arsenal-like, around the battery and along the driveway leading to it. It's decidedly an interesting place to visit—a sight to see.

YOU come upon these old breastworks, these ancient signs and signals, everywhere around Atlanta. I almost stumbled over some recently while exploring the grounds of Highbanks, the Stafford Seidell country place on the Marietta road, which was the main avenue of approach for the armies marching down from the battle of Kennesaw mountain. Shooting, hunting, musing through the woods—

The announcement that Fritz Kreisler, the master violinist, appears at the Atlanta Music Club, is to give a concert here in Auditorium-Armory on Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, 8:30, is one of the most interesting of the present season has brought. While Kreisler has never appeared to the common sensibilities to win the plaudits of the public has always gone on the principle that his audience demanded his best and most conscientious work, no violinist today, either in America or in Europe, has a greater personal following. Aside from his supreme gifts as an artist, it is perhaps the very fact that he always teaches for the highest ideals in his performance and seems unconsciously to communicate this fact to his public that accounts for his sincere admiration of the public has for him. Kreisler is not only beloved by the professional but by the lay-public as well. Sales of tickets open Nov. 18 at Phillips & Crew Piano Co.

Pierce; Chicago Gold Coasters choose it from the candy shelves of the Illinois Athletic Club, the world's most perfectly appointed club house; smart Californians find it at May's in Los Angeles, favorite shop of Hollywood celebrities. Everywhere—from coast to coast—the candy choice of smart America is the same... always Norris... for Norris designers and Norris candy craftsmen have united to form a lovely ensemble of vivid colors that is in sheer harmony with the modern mode... a definite styling that wins preference for Norris the nation over. You may secure it, only a few hours from the time it is packed, at over 200 of Atlanta's fine stores.

NSWERS MAILED AFTER MIDNIGHT

At first glance all the young ladies look alike; but you are asked to find the Twins that are clothed exactly alike. Now then: upon closer examination you will find a difference in their wearing apparel. Have they all earrings or necklaces? How about their coats and hats? Are they trimmed the same? Some have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat. It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN № 7

Housebroken

BY PAUL HERVEY FOX

SYNOPSIS.
Tom Davis, football star of a small eastern college, plays brilliantly in his last season. After the battle, Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to escort a girl who'd been asked down to the college for him. Tom agrees to substitute for him. The girl, Suzanne Branch, makes an instantaneous appeal to him. She tells Tom that she is engaged to marry a friend of her father's. After she leaves Tom writes to her. Before the Christmas holidays Tom meets Suzanne in New York. Suzanne breaks her engagement to the other man, when she and Tom realize they love each other and Suzanne invited Tom to her home to meet her family.

INSTALLMENT V. A FLASH OF JEALOUSY.

By the time Suzanne and Tom had reached the house, Mike, Suzanne's red cocker-spaniel, came running out to greet them. She picked up the dog and her face changed.

"Who let him loose?" she demanded of her sisters, as she reached the house.

"I did," said Joan.

"But you shouldn't. I tied him up. I wanted him tied up."

"But he did need to run so—he barked to get out."

"I don't care! You've got to leave him alone. He's mine!" And then in a voice that had a kind of passion in it she repeated the phrase: "He's mine!"

Joan's mouth trembled. To be reproached in front of Tom was too much for her. She burst into tears and fled.

Suzanne's face was a little pale. She looked at Tom.

"You see now what I'm like, don't you?" she asked with an air of half defiance. "I lose my temper. And I'm terribly jealous of anything that belongs to me. You'd better get away from me, while you can!"

He laughed and caught her close to him. Nevertheless, when he went away, the memory of her face and her voice as she had scolded Joan left a faint, slightly unpleasant impression in his mind.

Because he was now so much in love, he did not allow himself to think of it any further.

Bruce Stevens was always a man of moods, and this evening he was in especially high spirits.

Commencement was less than a week away. In place of a solemn regret, he had nothing but pleasure.

"I'm glad to get away from this hole," he declared. "I don't know how I ever stuck it out. Pass me the bottle, Joe!"

The others who had crowded into his room paid no attention, for they would not have been surprised if Bruce had felt as they did. But the sense of many close associations that were soon to be dissolved hung in the air.

Tom was unusually silent. Though he had long since told his family his news, he had said nothing in college. Several times he had been on the point of letting Bruce know, but the opportunity had passed. Bruce had continued to make extensive plans for the Chinese trip.

"We can start for the coast as soon as we get our degrees. We'll have about three days in San Francisco before sailing. All you need to do is to see I get on the boat."

It was late, and the empty bottle was chucked into the basket. Yawning, the upper classmen paraded off to their own rooms. Tom stayed where he was. He had decided to tell Bruce now. Angriely, he asked himself why he hadn't told him long before, instead of listening in silence to these idiotic plans about the far east.

As he reached for a cigarette, and snapped open a lighter, he felt Bruce's perceptive eyes resting upon him.

"I suppose you're sorry to leave these barracks," Bruce said. "Why, you'll be coming back year after year, mooning around like the worst old bore in the alumni association! I can see you!"

"Well, I've had a pretty good time. And it's been four years."

"I suppose if you had four years in jail, you'd try to break in when they let you out. However, maybe I can educate you when we hit Hong Kong."

"Why do you want to go there so much, Bruce?"

Bruce looked at him thoughtfully.

"What's up?" asked that intuitive young man.

Tom crushed his cigarette out, swung his chair around.

"I meant to tell you before," he said with a little effort. "I'm not going to China."

If he expected Bruce to be surprised, he was disappointed. After a pause Bruce said, quietly: "I was waiting for this. I smelt a rat about a week ago. So you've lost your nerve!"

"It isn't that, and you know it. Well, what is it then?"

Tom took a long breath. He said for the first time those important, slightly bewildering words: "I'm going to be married."

Bruce had given a start, his head leaned forward. He was watching him with an open mouth, yet not even breathing.

"You're going to be married?" he repeated at last.

"Well, but, look here! Are you kidding me?"

"No."

"But who? Do you want to get married—I mean, is it all right?"

"Of course I do. You—you never saw her. She's that girl Joe Galbraith brought for you at the house party in football season. Remember? You ran off, and left her to me."

Bruce was still staring, dazedly. Now he gave a sharp exclamation. "This is my fault, I suppose. But why didn't you tell me—before you got in too deep. I could have done something about it. Married at 22—your freedom gone for good at 22!"

"See here, Bruce, you don't understand. I don't know what you mean by freedom—I said I want to get married. I'm—I'm in love."

It had been hard to say, yet it had been the best thing to say. For Bruce, whose protests had been gathering force, stopped abruptly as if he were shot. There was a long awkward silence. Tom could hear the alarm clock ticking away.

For the first time since they had been friends, Bruce Stevens uttered a polite and formal word.

"I'm sorry for not getting you straight, Tom. Congratulations!"

But in the week that followed, Bruce was his familiar self. If anything he was worse than usual, more reckless, more inclined to make Tom's life a burden than previously.

Only two things seemed banned. There was no further mention of Tom's engagement or Bruce's voyage to China.

In that last week Bruce led a frankly disreputable life. He threw bottles out of the windows while the dean was passing, stayed in the nearby town nearly every night, and resorted to practical jokes which he had not stooped to before.

One dawn he stood beside Tom's bed. "Settling up old scores," he proclaimed. "Two years ago in March, you woke me up by dropping a sponge on me. Get ready for your shower bath!"

Suzanne was to come up for commencement on the last day. Tom wanted her to meet Bruce there. He had talked to her about Bruce a good deal, for his friend's adventures made amusing stories.

She had listened and laughed, though perhaps a little less patiently of late.

He met her at the train, and took room for her at the Dale house in the town. After the exercises, he told Bruce he was bringing her around directly.

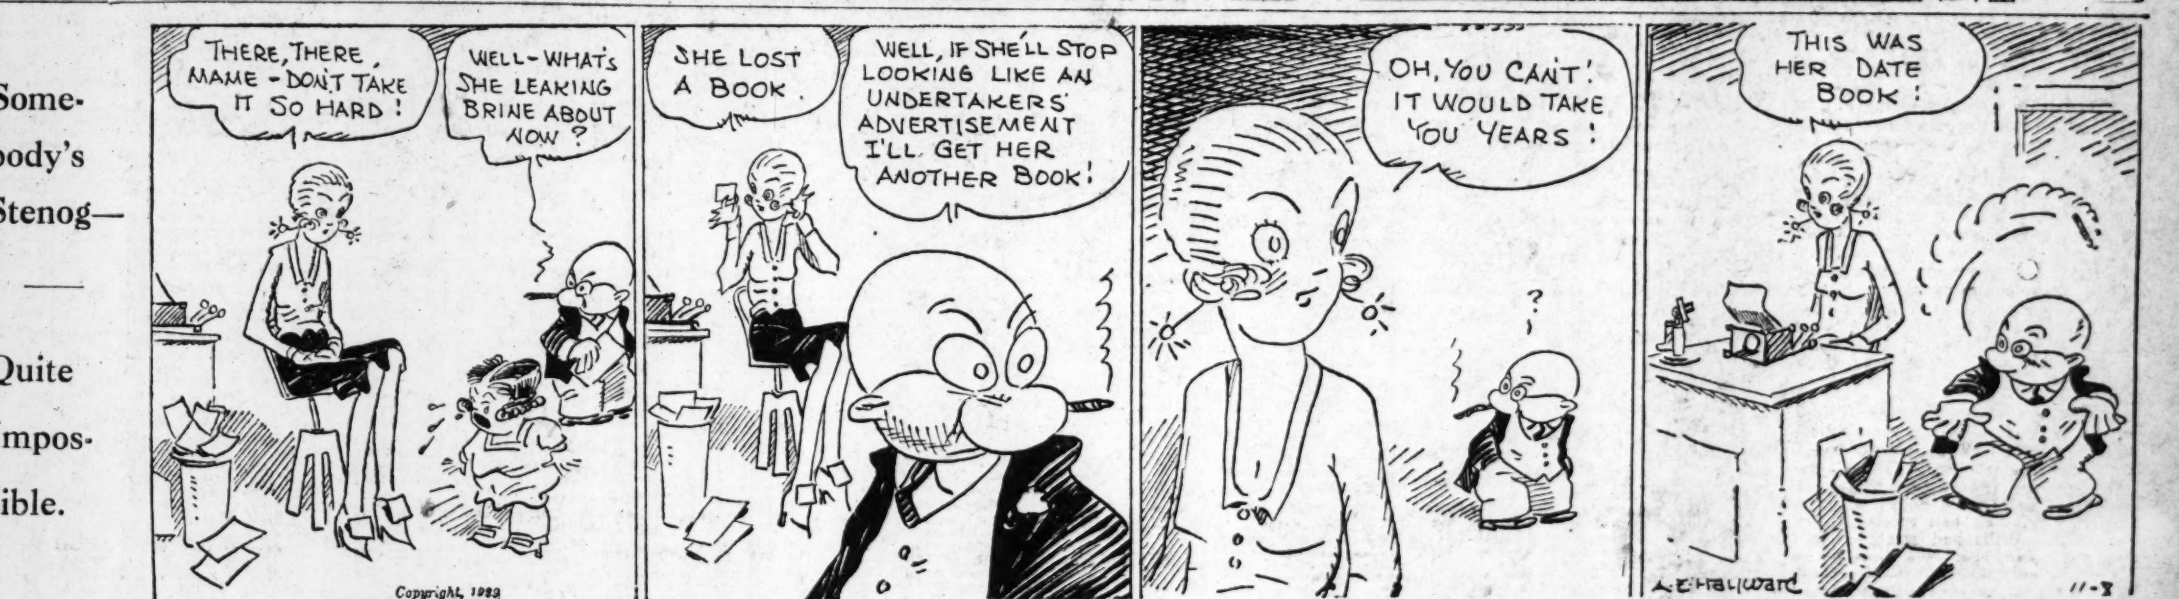

He knew Bruce was getting the 5:20 train, and it might be years before he would see him again.

Poems That Live

THE PINES AND THE SEA

BEYOND the low marsh-meadows and the beach,
Seen through the hoary trunks of windy pines,
The long blue level of the ocean shines.
The distant surf, with hoarse, complaining speech,
Aut from its sandy barrier seems to reach;
And while the sun behind the woods declines,
The moaning sea with sighing boughs combines,
And waves and pines make answer, each to each,
O melancholy soul, whom far and near,
In life, faith, hope, the same sad undertone
Pursues from thought to thought! thou needs must hear
An old refrain, too much, too long thine own:
'Tis thy mortality infects thine ear;
The mournful strain was in thyself alone.
